Democratic Delegates Spend Day and Night in Wild Demonstrations

OVATION FOR SMITH
Whole Battery of Orators
Second Nomination of
New York Governor

BULLETIN
Houston, Tex. — (AP) — Support for the vice presidential nomination was being held in abeyance by Wisconsin delegates to the Democratic national convention until after the nomination of the presidential candidate which was expected Thursday. George Dwinnell, chairman, said he expected that the delegates would support the man acceptable to the presidential nominee whom they expected would be Governor Al Smith.

Dwinnell said that he would then call a caucus, which would be the first of the convention, to make the decision. The chairman said he did not know where it would be held, whether on the floor of the convention or at the Rice hotel.

George Jorgenson, delegate from the sixth congressional district, was expected Thursday to second the nomination of Smith.

The Badger group more than shared the limelight with other Smith supporters Wednesday night in the enthusiastic reception which greeted the nomination of the New York governor by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A cardboard replica of the capitol at Washington with the prediction "Al Smith's Next Home" printed in large letters across its face, was carried on the shoulders of four Wisconsin delegates through the crowded aisles of the convention hall. It was the handiwork of Walter McGrath, president of the Wisconsin "Al Smith for President" club, and M. C. Pfalter, secretary.

"On Wisconsin," the martial tune of the state university, was almost as popular with the bands during the demonstration as the "Sidewalks of New York." It has been one of the favorites during the convention.

Some dissension was heard among the delegates over the fact that no caucus of the group that had held no opinion on what attitude they would assume on important matters of the convention. However, it was indicated by those who expressed disapproval that nothing would be said to those in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Bowler was the authority for the statement that the Wisconsin delegation stood alone in its not holding a caucus.

Delegates were fired and turned their eyes toward home and expected to leave within a few hours after the convention ends Friday. The sudden change in climate had affected some and most of them sought relief in the quiet of their hotel rooms.

Police were told that Nykiel was called out of one of his string of river front saloons and was cut down by a fusillade of pistol shots fired by Dipisa and an unidentified companion, posted behind an automobile in front of the place.

Edward A. McPherson, a constable who was serving a summons at a house nearby when the shooting occurred, ran to the street and opened fire on the pair as they attempted to enter their car. Dipisa was killed during the exchange. McPherson and Mrs. Catherine Kroychek, a peacemaker, were wounded. McPherson seemed Thursday to have little chance of recovery. The woman was not seriously wounded.

Employers of Nykiel's saloon pursued the unidentified gunman in an automobile. The running battle continued over a mile of west side streets when a police motor "quad caught sight of the machines. The officers opened fire and riddled the machine in the rear. Joseph Waznicki, a bartender employed by Nykiel, who was driving the pursuing car, escaped with minor injuries and while the situation was being explained to the police, the car occupied by the gunman disappeared.

The shooting, police believe, was the sequel of a feud of several years standing between a syndicate headed by Nykiel and a ring with which Dipisa and his three brothers were associated.

Police said Nykiel was reputed to have operated a fleet of river boats plying the Detroit river and the feud had its inception in attempts to combine, with which the Dipisa brothers were affiliated, to cut in on the business.

The destruction was so great and the cars had telescoped in such a manner that extrication of the bodies proved difficult and the full death list, it was feared, was still not known Thursday. All night the scene of the wreck was cordoned off and rescue crews worked desperately to remove the injured to hospitals.

RIVAL BARONS SHOOT IT OUT ON WATERFRONT

Officer and Woman Wounded When River Control Battle Is Resumed

Detroit, Mich. — (AP) — Warfare between factions fighting for control of the Detroit river liquor traffic broke out Wednesday night. August Nykiel and Michael Dipisa, rival barons, were shot dead. A policeman and a woman bystander were in hospitals Thursday suffering wounds received during a pistol battle.

Police were told that Nykiel was called out of one of his string of river front saloons and was cut down by a fusillade of pistol shots fired by Dipisa and an unidentified companion, posted behind an automobile in front of the place.

Dakota In Close Vote Over Repeal Of Dry Law

Fargo, N. D. — (AP) — The North Dakota vote Wednesday on a proposal to repeal the state prohibition law, appears to have been so close that it may require a nearly complete count before the result will become known.

Only 67 of the state's 2,192 precincts had reported early Thursday. The vote in those precincts was 5,573 against repeal, 4,669 for repeal. Most of these votes were cast in the eastern part of the state, regarded as "dry" territory.

In the vote for the nomination of United States senator and state officers, the early returns showed the Non-Partisan league trailing. In the Republican contest for senatorial nomination, Senator Lynn F. Frazier, Non-Partisan, trailed former Governor R. A. Nestos. Independent, by 1,500 votes in the 29 precincts reported.

George F. Shaker, Independent candidate for governor on the Republican nominating ticket, had 9,040 votes to the 3,547 counted for the Non-Partisan T. H. Thoresen, his nearest opponent in a tie of four.

The primary contests were chiefly within the Republican party, between candidates of the independent voters association, and those of the Non-Partisan league. There was virtually no opposition on the Democratic and Farmer-Labor tickets.

TRAIN CRASH KILLS 22 ON BRITISH LINE

Head-on Collision at Scarborough Brings Death to Excursion Party

Darlington, Durham, England — (AP) — Death cut a wide swath in a party of nearly 1,000 happy north-country excursionists returning from a holiday at Scarborough, when their train collided almost head-on late Wednesday night with an engine shunting freight cars in the yards here.

When the tangled debris resulting from the terrific crash and the telescoping of two crowded coaches had been searched, it was found that 22 persons, many of them women and children, had been killed and 47 injured, of whom 25 are still in the local hospital, some in serious conditions.

A large percentage of the victims were women and children. Comparatively few men were in the mid-week excursion party.

So badly mutilated were many of those killed that it was not possible Thursday afternoon to identify all of them.

SMITH BACKERS SEEK LOOPHOLE IN DRY PLANK

Smith, the Man, and Not the Issue He Exemplifies Accepted by Party

Dry Forces Have Edge Governor's Friends Aren't Eager for Showdown of Strength in Convention

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1928, Post Pub. Co.)
Houston, Texas, June 28. — (AP) — The Democratic national convention accepted as its platform for the coming year not the issue that exemplifies him, the Democratic national convention attempted by phrased and platform declarations to reconcile the conflicting views held by north and south on the value of America's experiment with prohibition.

The term "wet" and "dry" offer no clue to the divergent expressions to which the various groups cling. Governor Smith has won the nomination by dint of his record as an administrator and his capacity as a vote getter. His managers, shrewd, tactful and tolerant, have not tried to force his prohibition views on a convention much up of all many southern and western delegates who are committed to a theory about the Eighteenth Amendment, which finds so little sympathy in Democratic quarters in the east.

The fundamental question here is not whether the law shall be upheld or whether the Volstead act should be enforced. It is larger than that. It is whether America is not satisfied with the prohibition situation. To argue that the present status is unsatisfactory and needs some change, but in the meantime to pledge oneself to uphold and enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act, may be within the right of all citizens and in conformity with constitutional processes, yet those who want the existing status maintained without modification regard this as "wet."

The true dry here is the one who not only wants the Volstead act enforced, but who wants a declaration expressing satisfaction with the Eighteenth Amendment and a formal recognition by the party that it is here to stay. In other words, the drys are afraid that a mere determination to enforce the present law and to uphold the amendment as the Republicans pledged at Kansas City is not enough, and would permit Governor Smith to acquiesce in the repeal of both the amendment and the Volstead law. They want to tie his hands absolutely against discussion of change.

Over this point the convention is wrangling today with the prospect that before the night is over the Smith people will have to accept the dry view point or force such a showdown of strength as might leave scars of real discord in the campaign. To accept any plank on the other hand might not commit Governor Smith, for it is well known that a candidate can swallow as much or as little of a party platform as he wants and still be following precedent.

Woodrow Wilson repudiated two planks in the 1912 platform when he was nominated. One related to a single six year term for president and the other to the Panama canal toll law, which had discriminated against foreign vessels, and on which he felt so strongly that when elected he made a personal appeal to congress to have the law repealed.

It all depends on how the platform plank is phrased as to whether it affords Governor Smith a loophole. Some of the more conservative political leaders who are extremely "dry" but who are practical politicians themselves, do not wish to see Governor Smith embarrassed, and would probably have let any ambiguous plank as to the future of prohibition go through, provided it was accompanied by a pledge for law enforcement.

The remnant of anti Smith feeling on the other hand, is still venting its opposition to the New York Governor, and then there are those here who want the limelight for political reasons back home. Some state orators are bent on the issue, and have been split wide open on the Smith candidacy, and hence the prohibition plank is just another source of local disturbances entirely apart from the problems of the northern Democrat in seeking to get the full benefit of northern and eastern dissatisfaction with the era of the bootlegger.

Madison — (AP) — C. R. Rind, Wausau attorney, has been appointed by the state supreme court as referee in hearing complaints against Raymond J. Cannon and Julius E. Kiefer, Milwaukee attorneys charged with improper practices.

Cannon and Kiefer, included in the investigation of attorneys practicing in "chasing ambulances" were before the state bar commission for investigation.

WIFE REQUESTS COURT TO BAN HUB'S FRIEND
New York — (AP) — The state supreme court had before it Thursday a wife's request that a feminine acquaintance of her husband be prohibited from associating with him.

Mrs. Lalla M. G. Barr, wife of James Cummings Barr, steel manufacturer, and prominent social in New York, Boston and Washington, filed suit for an injunction against Mrs. Margaret C. Dana.

In her petition, Mrs. Barr charges Mrs. Dana with exercising a "dominant influence" over her husband since the two met in 1926.

COMMITTEE IS FOR ENFORCING U. S. DRY LAW

Leaders Hope They Can Avert Open Fight on Floor of Convention

BOTH SIDES SATISFIED Expect Delegates Will Dispose of Platform in Less Than an Hour

BY JAMES L. WEST
Houston, Tex. — (AP) — A prohibition plank, declaring for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, was approved Thursday by the Democratic convention's resolution sub-committee in winding up the drafting of the platform, upon which the party will seek a grant of power in November.

The declaration, which has been the subject of bitter controversy for days, is exactly as it was drafted by Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the committee, and is understood to have the full endorsement of Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Resides declaring for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, the plank sharply assails the Republican administration for what is described as a failure to enforce the dry laws and also for placing "political hirelings" in enforcement positions, thus making of prohibition a political football.

The sub-committee, which will report the platform to the entire committee later in the day with a view to having it go before the convention Thursday afternoon, adopted a firm plank on the taking care of the farm organizations, but with a definite endorsement of the equalization fee and the McNary-Haugen bill omitted.

Several plans for relief are suggested and the party would be pledged to enact legislation to correct what are declared to be the faults in distribution and the taking care of the surplus farm crops. It was explained that this might be done through the operation of the equalization fee or by other means.

DISCARD PROPOSALS
Several wet and dry proposals were submitted to the sub-committee but they were eliminated one by one until there remained only the original plank as drawn by Senator Pittman and other leaders last week, and a similar one offered by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, a dry leader. After an agreement as to precise language the committee finally approved the Pittman draft.

Gov. Dan Moody of Texas, presented the prohibition declaration adopted by the Texas state convention and discussed the Eighteenth Amendment, but this was rejected along with proposals for the modification of the prohibition laws so as to permit the states to decide whether they would be wet or dry.

The consensus among the 12 platform builders appeared to be that there would be no prohibition fight in the convention.

Senator Key Pittman was of the opinion that it would not require more than an hour for the entire committee to pass upon the platform and he expected the convention to hold a special session in mid-afternoon to receive and approve the committee report.

WALSH SATISFIED
Senator Charles McNary, one of the sub-committee members, said he did not think the prohibition discussion would be raised on the floor, but emphasized that this was his personal opinion only. He is one of the staunchest drys in the senate.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, another sub-committee member, said he regarded the prohibition plank "as the best possible" after taking into consideration the difference of opinion. He added that he personally would have preferred a different plank.

Other members of the sub-committee appeared to be satisfied with the prohibition pronouncement, which went through by practically an unanimous vote, but Senator Glass declined to make any statement after leaving the committee room.

ICE IMPERILS RESCUE EFFORT FOR ZEP CREW

Relief Parties Face Great Odds, With Stranded Men Still in Bad Position

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen — (AP) — Airmen and vessels attempting to rescue five survivors of the dirigible Italia and the Swedish flyer, Lieutenant Lundberg, faced overwhelming odds Thursday.

Dangerous ice floes added to the peril of rescue operations. The steamship Quest, used as a base by Swedish airmen, encountered a movement of ice from the east across Minlopfen strait and the crew was compelled to leave Wahlberg bay and seek refuge on the north coast of North East Land.

Criticism has been voiced in Italy over the failure of General Umberto Nobile to report the death of Vincenzo Pomella in the crash of the Italia until after Nobile himself had been rescued.

The newspaper Tribune, of Rome, answering Nobile's critics, said the commander of the Italia preferred to wait until he could break the news more gently to the widow and family of Pomella.

NOBILE TO AID WORK
Rome — (AP) — General Umberto Nobile will return by air to direct the search for the icebound crew of the Italia, says a dispatch Thursday in L'Avanti of Italy.

The decision to permit the return of Gen. Nobile, says this paper, was made after physicians had determined that the mental and physical condition of the Italia's commander were satisfactory.

AMUNDSEN STILL MISSING
Oslo, Norway — (AP) — Five ships were searching the sea between Norway and Spitzbergen Thursday for traces of the missing French seaplane carrying Roald Amundsen and five companions.

The Norwegian cruiser Tordenskjold, the French auxiliary vessel Quentin Roosevelt, and the sealer Helmand, chartered by the French government, sailed from Tromsø to search in the neighborhood of Bear Island.

C. C. Weber of Minneapolis, president of the Upper Mississippi Bar, Line Corporation, and several representatives of the same concern will call on him Friday to present him with a resolution of thanks for approving at the last session of congress a bill extending the government operation of barge lines on that river.

FILM WORKERS SAVE STUDIO FROM FLAMES

Extras and Stars Battle Blaze Which Threatens Huge Plant

Hollywood, Calif. — (AP) — A carelessly tossed cigarette or lighted match, tinder-dry brush and a brisk wind constituted the combination which brought almost a thousand film workers into the real drama of fire fighting here Wednesday.

The film forces were called upon to save the huge plant of the First National studios at North Hollywood from a grass and brush fire which swept 1,000 acres of the nearby hills. To a lesser extent fears were felt for the safety of the Universal studio at Universal City.

Although the motion picture people and organized fire fighters who were rushed to the battle, which extended over a three mile front, huddled away from the flames and played streams of water on the lower buildings of the First National movie plant, it was a shift of the wind that brought victory. The change in the wind turned the flames back against the burned area and the fire was brought under control.

Featured players joined laborers in the battle with the brush fire. Richard Barthelmess directed one squad of workers.

Cape de la Madeleine, Que. — (AP) — Miss Thea Rasche, German girl friend who hopes to make a non-stop flight to Berlin, and her crew escaped uninjured when her monoplane, North Star, crashed through some bushes in an attempted takeoff for a test flight.

Urich Koeneemann, pilot, and Mechanic Zebor were in the plane with Miss Rasche. The latter was at the controls. The ship was not seriously damaged.

Owing to the softness of the field the plane refused to leave the ground and tumbled to the end of the field where it ploughed through some bushes.

A full load of 400 gallons of gasoline was carried but was damped by Koeneemann when the plane approached the edge of the field.

SCARFACE AL BOTHERS MIAMI BEACH COUNCIL
Miami Beach, Fla. — (AP) — The city council was busy Thursday making Miami Beach uncomfortable for Scarface Al Capone, racketeer, gambler, and the imposing body guard that accompanied him here.

At a stormy special session of the council Wednesday, a resolution was passed calling on all officers in the county to arrest Capone for the slightest infraction of any law.

WOMAN AVIATOR IS HEADING FOR HOME

Southampton, Eng. — (AP) — Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz and Louis Gordon, fresh from the cordial welcome which they were given after their flight across the Atlantic from Newfoundland, sailed for home Thursday.

The group of American fliers was given a hearty greeting by the passengers lining the rails of the steamship President Roosevelt as their tender came alongside.

Miss Earhart was guest of honor at a private dinner given Wednesday night by Mrs. Hubert Scott Payne of the Imperial Airways, and slipped away from her hotel quietly Thursday morning to join the liner without any official function.

FRENCH STUNT FLYER IS KILLED IN LANDING
Paris — (AP) — Alfred Frenay, France's most famous stunt pilot, was killed Thursday at the Villa Coublay landing field when his plane crashed.

He was preparing to make a simple landing after performing a series of wild, breath taking acrobatics high in the air during the Vincennes fair. He had looped the loop, executed innumerable tailspins, side slips and every other flying trick known to aviation.

As he touched the ground he collided with a military plane and his own craft burst into flames. Before he could extricate himself, he was overcome and burned to death.

WORKMAN IS KILLED WHILE UNLOADING CAR
Madison — (AP) — George Ocklin, 25, Sun Prairie, was killed Thursday when working with a highway gang he was helping load a huge tar heater on a railroad car. The heavy heater slipped and his head was crushed. He had been working with his partner, while his wife and child were visiting at Wisconsin Rapids.

Houston, Tex. — (AP) — I think you will overlook the report of catastrophe that happened to me today. I did not attend the convention, so of next best choice, you will have to see the official convention records of what took place, or else take for granted that the five hundred series have been named. The catastrophe is this, after being awake all night trying to think of a way to punish the Houston weatherman, I started. For the hall today with the satanic idea of launching a campaign to nominate him for Democratic vice president. As I approached my favorite entrance gate to the hall, my car was stopped to see my car piled up in the high art of gate crashing, nevertheless there are others to our profession. Scallowing my fate, that I, I mean pray, I asked Connolly the reason for his embarrassing position. Without a trace of competitive bitterness in his voice he confessed that the Texas police proved any obstacle to his getting in the hall today. To make sure that he would stay put they manacled him to a bench by the wrist, where they could watch him. Obediently he wanted to let me (whatever either of us could borrow) that I could not crash the gate today. Well, friends we extra crashers must stick together so I became indignant at the treatment given my rival and went on a convention strike, refusing to go in.

Head, conventions are beginning to call.

MILK FIRM EMPLOYEES VISIT REUPING DAIRY AND HEAR SPEAKERS

Cleanliness Comes First at Corium Farm; Milk Has Low Bacteria Count

About 40 employees of Appleton Pure Milk company and their families visited Corium Farm, belonging to P. P. Reuping, at Fond du Lac Wednesday afternoon. This is one of the few registered Guernsey dairy farms in the United States and has a milking herd of about 30 cows. A picnic dinner was served the visitors after the inspection trip.

Speakers who addressed the group following the dinner were E. L. Westover of the American Guernsey Cattle club, George Newlan, manager of the farm, and A. L. Wetherell, chemist for the Reuping Leather company, also chemist and bacteriologist for the milk plant.

Mr. Westover told the milk company employees the history of Guernsey cattle, the success with which the cows have been raised in this country and the characteristics of Guernsey milk. He also paid tribute to the Reuping farm, calling it one of the largest of its kind in the country.

Mr. Newlan, as manager, explained practices followed in keeping the farm and cattle clean and method followed in treating bottles and bottling milk. Milk supplied from the Reuping farm has a bacteria count of never over 10,000 to the cubic centimeter and most of the time below 5,000.

The Appleton people arrived at the farm just as the evening's milking was being completed and proceeded through the barns and milk house with Mr. Reuping supervising the trip. Milking at the farm is all done by hand.

The big barn which houses the herd is kept immaculately clean as are the cows. The interior of the barn is painted white and lime dust covers the floors so there can be no dust in the air. The lime also acts as a disinfectant.

The milk is bottled at once, each bottle being double capped, one of the latter bearing a notation as to date the milk is sold. Wednesday night's milk bears a cap with the date Thursday.

Corium farm milk, although having all characteristics of certified milk, is not advertised as such, Mr. Reuping said, because he has found that a few conditions which must be observed to get certified milk can be eliminated on the farm and the milk remain of high standard. The Reuping farm sells about 200 quarts of milk in Fond du Lac at a price about double that asked for ordinary pasteurized milk.

FORECLOSE ON FARM IN TOWN OF ONEIDA

A 95-acre farm in the town of Oneida will be sold at public auction at 10 o'clock Saturday morning by Sheriff Otto Zuehlke to satisfy a mortgage foreclosure judgment granted May 7, 1927. The sale will take place at the sheriff's office in the courthouse. The farm is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Martin D. Archibette, et al, and the mortgage is held by the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, Minn.

GUARD INSTRUCTOR BACK AT DESK HERE

Capt. James K. Campbell of the regular army, attached to the local guard unit as instructor returned to his desk at the armory Wednesday. He took part in the dedication of the new rifle range at that city Sunday when two machine guns from the local company put on a firing exhibition. Several trees were cut down by the local gunners to show the crowd the devastating effects of gun fire. Capt. Campbell also inspected the Rhineland guard company.

Do Unto Your Hands as You Would Have Them Do Unto You
By Edna Wallace Hopper

How many times it is said that a woman's hands betray her age. If this is true, start right now the pleasurable game of trying to keep your hands young. The real truth behind the saying is that your hands will be kind to you if you show them a little consideration. It is simple.

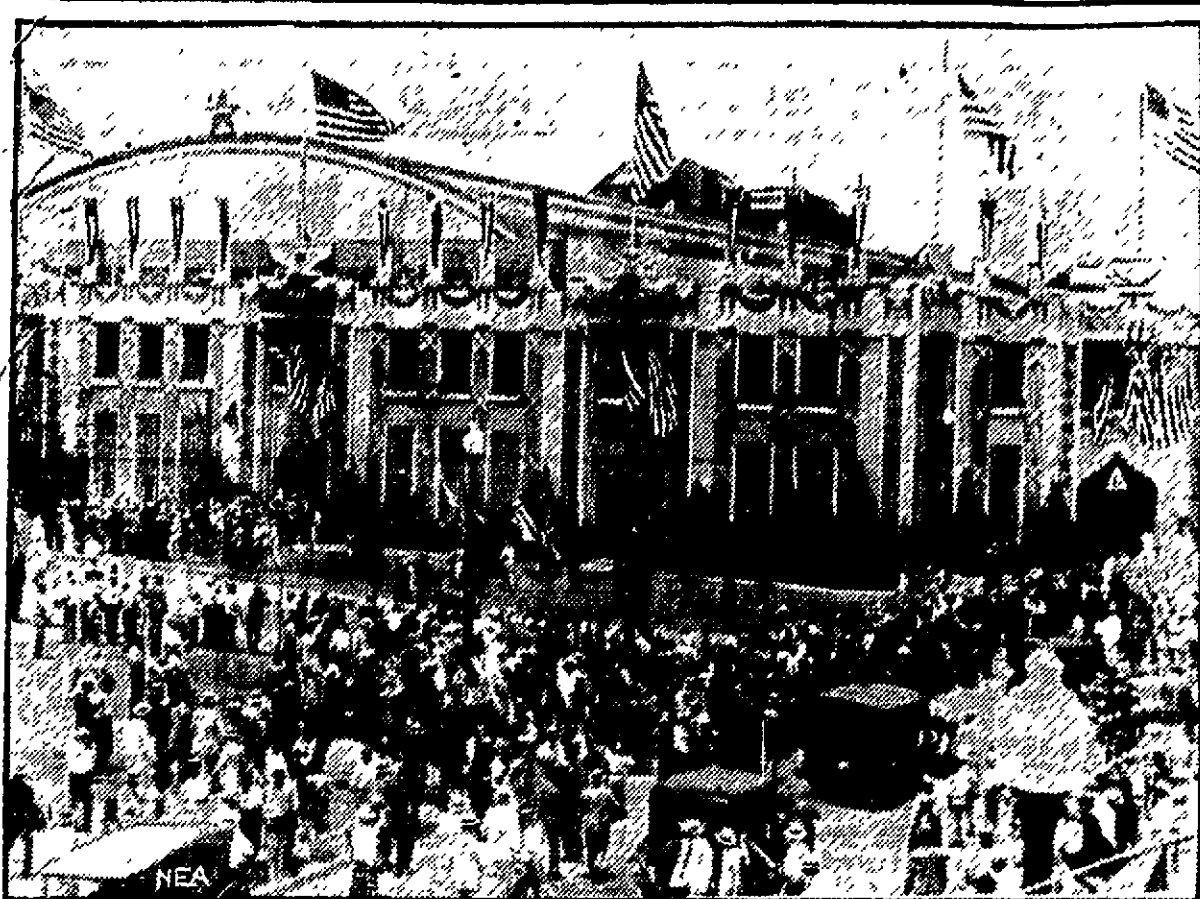

I know that my hands have responded marvelously to it. Edna Wallace Hopper

Every time I wash them in my theater dressing room or at the hotel, I promptly counteract the effect of soap and water by rubbing on briskly my Youth Hand Lotion.

This is a wonderful treat to the skin. Even the first application will show you. Your skin will absorb the lotion as quickly as a plant consumes moisture after the rainfall. It leaves your hands smooth and dry, and you can put on gloves immediately after using. Soft, white, lovely hands will be yours. You will realize how much your skin needs this soothing attention.

Always keep a bottle on your dressing table or bath room shelf. And most of all you need one where you work—whether your daily tasks are in the home or elsewhere.

CROWDS GATHER AROUND BIG HALL

Copyright, 1928, by NEA Service. Transmitted by NEA Airplane and Telephoto.

Drawn by the irresistible attraction of "big dings" in Holston, crowds massed around the great coliseum Tuesday afternoon as the Democrats started the convention that was to name a national ticket for 1928. Hundreds without tickets tried to "crush the gates" and were turned back by special police. They waited eagerly outside for news of the convention.

LETTER GOLF

IT'S IN THE CARDS

How often in bridge have you wished that a JACK in your hand was a KING? In letter golf it's easy to make it so. Par is five and one solution is on page 9.

J	A	C	K
K	I	N	G

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
- 2—You can change only one letter at a time.
- 3—You must have a complete word of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
- 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

DOHR IN RACE FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Secretary of County Bar Association Seeks Office on Democratic Ticket

Raymond P. Dohr, Appleton attorney, Wednesday announced his candidacy for the office of district attorney for Outagamie-co. He is the fourth candidate to enter the race. Mr. Dohr will seek the office as a Democrat and is the first candidate for county office to announce his intention of running on that ticket.

Born and raised in Appleton Mr. Dohr is a graduate of St. Joseph parochial school and Appleton high school. He graduated from the law school of Notre Dame university, South Bend, Ind., in the fall of 1924 and passed his bar examination and was admitted to the bar in Wisconsin in 1925.

Immediately after his admission to the bar, he opened a law office in Appleton and has been practicing here since. He is the secretary of the Outagamie-co Bar association and chairman of the Outagamie-co Citizens Military Training camp.

BAR WIENER ROASTERS FROM BOY SCOUT CAMP

Campers who have been using the boy scout camp at lake Winnebago as a place for building fires for marsh-mallow and wiener roasts are requested by the valley council to look for another place.

People have been building fires on the lawn adjacent to the main camp building and are leaving tin cans and bricks strewn on the camp site, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive.

When the first spot was noticed the council did not object, but since that time at least fifteen large black spots have been burned into the lawn. Bricks for the fire place were used by parties for building camp stoves, and for brick fights, as is evidenced by the distance they have been carried from the main pile.

William Doyle, Milwaukee, was in Appleton Wednesday visiting with friends.

Carl Wettengel, 915 E. Alton-st., and William Van Nortrick, 229 N. Union-st., left Thursday for Culver Naval Academy at Culver, Ind. The camp will last two months.

A. F. Everett, government engineer journeyed to Portage Wednesday on an inspection tour.

Another social leader chooses Old Gold...when Mrs. Sidney Borg makes the Blindfold test

"The charitable activities in which I am engaged make it necessary for me to meet with women at all kinds of functions. I am often invited to smoke, but I smoke so little that my throat protests immediately unless the cigarette is very mild. So it was with particular delight that I discovered OLD GOLD in the blindfold test. I chose it at once... and from now on it will be my exclusive favorite."

MOTORCOPS READY TO START WAR ON DEFECTIVE LIGHTS

Autoists Who Fail to Heed Warning Will Be Arrested; Lonsdorf Says

A drive to enforce the new state headlight laws is to be started within the next week or ten days by county motorcycle officers, under the supervision of John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, Otto Zuchke, sheriff, and A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, under whose department the motorcops are regulated.

Cards for tagging automobiles with headlights violating state laws have been printed and are to be distributed with instructions for their use, according to Mr. Brusewitz.

The cards are in two sections being separated by perforations. When a car is tagged, the lower section is torn off by the officer and kept for reference.

On one side of the upper section is space to record the time the car was tagged. Below that are the following instructions to the owner of the car:

"Your headlights appear to be violating the state law regulating automobile headlights for the reasons checked below. You are ordered to appear at any certified adjusting station, according to law, within five days to have your lights tested. Please comply with the law and avoid arrest."

Then follows the five offenses: 1, two headlights required; 2, elimination of dangerous glare; 3, proper type and adjustment of spotlight; 4, minimum permissible road light 5, tail light required.

The cards also bear the information that twisted or broken lenses, rusted or tarnished reflectors wornout bulbs and improper aimed lamps are illegal and must be adjusted.

On this reverse side of the upper section, is room for the headlight testing station to certify that proper adjustments have been made is provided. When the defects have been remedied, the card may be mailed to the sheriff and if the card is not returned in five days warrant for the arrest of the person to whom the license of the machine was issued will be sworn out.

The smaller section of the card, which is retained by the officer making the arrest, has space for the license number of the tagged car, the name of the owner and the date of the arrest and the reason for the arrest. These will be filed in the Sheriff's office.

Printing of these cards and the drive to enforce the state law followed a recent announcement by District Attorney Lonsdorf that such steps were to be taken in this country.

PROVIDE INVENTOR WITH ATHLETIC FIELD SEATS

Madison—(AP)—Prof. Stephen M. Babcock, inventor of the milk test that bears his name, has been honored as few others have been by the University of Wisconsin athletic department. It has tendered him two seats at all of the athletic contests in which it participates at home.

The elderly inventor, who have his humanity-benefiting invention to the world without recompense, has long been an interested follower of Badger fortunes on the field and court, but through a ticket arrangement whereby basketball duets are only available to each person for about three of the home games, and because of other handicaps, he has been unable to attend as often as he would like.

Director George Little of the athletic department has made public a letter in which he assures Babcock that there are always two tickets waiting for him for football, basketball, hockey, baseball or any other game.

John Roche spent the weekend at Milwaukee and Waukesha visiting his brother, Joseph, who is ill at a hospital, and other relatives.

Muskies Are Biting Good This Year, Anglers Report

BY B. A. CLAFLIN
The chief ambition of most anglers is to land a Muskellunge, the king of all fresh water fighters. Taking into consideration the legal size of the fish, he is excelled by none as a scrapper. He will leap repeatedly at times, and again will dive to the bottom and remain there for quite a period absolutely motionless, and apparently in sheer defiance of all attempt on the part of the angler to incite him to action. Then suddenly, he will decide to rise to the surface, and often will swim slowly almost to the boat, his glaring eyes seeming to search for the cause of his trouble.

About the time the angler thinks he has no fight in him and is giving up easily, away he will go, leaping high above the surface, shaking the spoon or "plug" viciously while above the surface, winding the line about him in many folds. All of these contortions are performed for a purpose. He is not frightened, he is just mad all through. To illustrate his vicious nature, I have heard of a musky actually snapping an angler's finger off after the fish was gaffed and in the boat. I cannot vouch for this as a fact, however, as I have never witnessed a demonstration of this kind by any of these "tigers" of the fresh water that I have had the pleasure and great satisfaction of landing. Still, it may be true, for they have a fine set of long, sharp teeth.

Essex Masquinongy is the imposing name by which this fish is known to ichthyology. His flesh is most excellent as a food, differing greatly from that of the Great Northern pike, which generally speaking, resembles him very much, or that of the common pickerel. This latter fish, by the way, very seldom attains a weight of over three pounds, and never over six. Much more often he will weigh from a pound to about two. There should be no difficulty on the part of the angler determining to a certainty whether he has a musky or a Northern pike, if he will remember to examine the scales on the cheeks and gill covers. The musky has scales on the upper half of both cheek and gill covers, while the pike is scaled differently.

Here is a bit of good news for those who would like to try for a musky, and yet, not have to make too long a drive to get where it can be done. I just received a telegram from Harold Weaver, of Pelican Lake, saying that muskies were caught there last week, the largest specimen being 50 inches long and weighing 42 pounds. He said he had not found them so plentiful and easy to hook in twenty years.

Use about a number 5 or 6 spoon with colored feathers for trolling, or any of the well known "plugs" for casting, and you will get them. Do not, however, use too large lures.

Pelican Lake is twenty five miles from Antigo and the road is concrete between these two points. If you wish to get a musky, you'd better go up just as soon as possible, for when warm weather comes in July, they will not bite as readily due to the shedding of their teeth.

GRID STARS TRAIN BOY CHERRY PICKERS

Noted Players Will Be at Horseshoe Bay Camp on Door-co Peninsula

Boys going to Horseshoe Bay to earn their board and have fun when the cherry picking season opens, will have a chance to attend the football training camp conducted by Jake Zussman, George Schlagenhauf, and Ted Beyer, football star at the University of Miami, under Cub Buck, who plays with the Green Bay Packers and who was All-American from the Wisconsin U. Alois Leithen has been added to the list of councillors, who will take charge of the boys at camp Chac.

PARADE TO FEATURE
BIG CELEBRATION AT
MENASHA ON JULY 4

Water Carnival, Fireworks and Dancing Will Keep Visitors Busy

Menasha—The committees in charge of the celebration on July 4 held an enthusiastic meeting Wednesday evening at the Elks club. Work assigned each committee is about completed and the finishing touches are being put on the program, which is to be more elaborate than originally planned. The industrial parade in the morning will be one of the big features. It will form at 8:30 between Milwaukee and Racine streets on Broad, First and Second, and will move down Racine, Main, and Washington streets and thence to Wisconsin-ave, Neenah, and back to the public triangle, where prizes for best floats will be awarded. Newspapersmen are to act as judges.

Merchants and manufacturers of both Menasha and Neenah will be represented with floats. Three prizes will be awarded for the prettiest floats and two for the most comical. The civic parade in the afternoon will include all civic organizations of both Menasha and Neenah and will cover all the principal streets of this city. Music for both parades will be furnished by three bands and two drum corps.

Besides the parades, the morning program will include bicycle races, and diving and swimming events, the latter to take place at the government dock.

The dedication of the new Memorial building will be held in the afternoon and will be followed by a series of athletic events being arranged by W. H. Pierce and R. G. DuCharme. A water carnival is also being planned. The fireworks have arrived and will be in charge of an expert. Dancing in both the new Memorial building and pavilion will form part of the evening program.

PAST MATRONS, PATRONS TO PICNIC AT WAUPACA

Menasha—The Past Matrons' and Past Patrons circle of Fox River valley and their families will hold their first annual picnic at Camp Cleghorn, Chippewa Lake, Waupaca, on Thursday, July 12. The Waupaca committee is in charge of the affair. The association is composed of the past matrons and past patrons of Eastern Star chapters of Menasha, Neenah, Appleton, Berlin, Brandon, Chilton, Clintonville, DePere, Kaukauna, Weyauwega and other cities.

LEGION MUSICIANS GET READY FOR JULY FOURTH

Menasha—The bugle and drum corps of Henry J. Lenz post, American Legion, which will make its first appearance in the parade on July 4, practiced marching and playing on some of the business streets Wednesday evening.

CALL FOR BIDS ON NEW MENASHA BRIDGE

Menasha—Bids for the new Taycoast bridge will be opened at 11 o'clock Friday morning at the city hall. They are being called for by the Wisconsin highway commission.

TWO CARS DAMAGED IN COLLISION AT MENASHA

Menasha—A collision occurred Tuesday night between automobiles owned and driven by F. Knorr and C. Stepanie at the corner of Manitowoc and Lake-roads. Both cars were damaged.

MENASHA NINE PLAYS
AT GREEN BAY SUNDAY

Menasha—The baseball team of St. Mary Young Men's club will play the Browns of Green Bay next Sunday at Green Bay. The game will be called at 2:45 and is scheduled for Lakeview beach park. The team will leave for Green Bay at 11 o'clock.

CHIEF GETS PLATE

Menasha—Paul Theimer, chief of the fire department, received a brass radiator plate Thursday morning for his automobile. It consists of the chief's insignia above which appears the word, fire.

SOCIAL ITEMS AT MENASHA

Menasha—Miss Duella Watten, who has made her home with her sister, Mrs. John Mackin, at 612 Broad-st., and Eric Beckman were married at 8 o'clock Thursday morning at St. Patrick church by the Rev. George A. Clifford. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, John Mackin. Her bridesmaid was Miss Emma Strauss, Oshkosh, cousin of the bridegroom and the best man was Herman Beckman, his brother. Patricia Schommer and Betty Keapock were flower girls.

The ceremony at the church was followed by breakfast and reception at the home of Mrs. Mackin, attended by 50 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Beckman left on a wedding trip to Milwaukee and Chicago. Upon their return they will reside at 612 Broad-st. Out of town guests were Miss Beatrice Mackin of Chicago and Mrs. Elizabeth Strauss, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Luedke, Miss Emma Strauss and Herman Beckman of Oshkosh.

Miss Marie Kowalkowski, who will become the bride of Walter H. Thorton Saturday, was the guest of honor at a shower Monday evening given by the Sunday school teachers of Trinity Lutheran church at the school hall. Games were played and prizes won by Miss Ruth Thakke, Miss Kowalkowski, Earl Page and George Krause.

Miss Leona Track, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Track, Snell, and Marvin Kelly, Oshkosh, were married at 8 o'clock Thursday morning at St. Patrick church, Menasha, by the Rev. George A. Clifford. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bridegroom is employed as a bookkeeper on the office of the Diamond Match company, Oshkosh.

Miss Emily von Jasmond, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Henry von Jasmond, Detroit, and Carl Henry Walker, 632 First-st., were married at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at Detroit. The wedding was a quiet affair on account of the critical illness of the bridegroom's mother. Mr. and Mrs. Walker will arrive in Menasha the latter part of the week.

Sacred Heart Mission club held its annual meeting Tuesday evening at St. Mary school hall. Preliminary arrangements were made for a picnic supper at Menasha park Tuesday afternoon, July 24. The business session was followed by cards at which honors were won by Miss Rose Pack, Mrs. Joseph Liebhauser, Mrs. F. Magalske and Mrs. Lawrence Liebhauser.

BUSINESS WOMEN SING
AND DANCE AT PICNIC

Menasha—More than 70 members of the Business and Professional Women's club attended their picnic at High Cliff Wednesday afternoon. They left here in automobiles at 8:30 o'clock. A picnic supper was served near an open fire and camp songs were followed by dancing. Members of the club decided to be represented in the industrial parade by a float on July 4.

MEETS MONDAY

Neenah—The July council meeting will be held Monday evening owing to regular meeting night falling on July 4. The regular routine business will be transacted.

TWIN CITY FOLKS
GIVE FLOWERS TO THEIR HOSPITAL

Residents of Neenah and Menasha are invited to offer flowers for patients confined in Theda Clark hospital to be picked up by Appleton Post-Crescent Flower Cars beginning Saturday, June 2, and every Saturday until the end of the flower season next fall.

Persons who will have flowers for the hospital are invited to leave their names and addresses at Elvers Drug store, phone 24, if they live in Neenah, and at Frank Hoffmann's grocery, phone 212, if their residence is in Menasha. All calls must be made to those places before 8:15 on Saturday morning. It will be impossible for the Flower Cars to call for flowers if the calls are received after that hour.

BAD WEATHER PUTS
STOP TO SOFTBALL

Alderman Hans Rasmussen
Wins Championship as Horseshoe Pitcher

Neenah—All softball games were called off for Thursday evening on account of bad weather. The games will be played Friday evening should the weather clear up. American league games scheduled for Friday evening will be played next Tuesday evening instead.

There will be a meeting at 7:15 Thursday evening of all managers of the National and American league teams at the Red Cross office to arrange the schedule, which has become badly mixed up on account of the continued rains.

Alderman Hans Rasmussen won first place in the city official horseshoe contest and also the silver horseshoe donated by H. Thermanon, Wednesday evening by defeating alderman Harder 21-12 and 21-10. The semi-finals in the championship events will be played off Friday evening.

ESSAY WINNERS DUE TO ARRIVE HOME FRIDAY

Neenah—Paul Gerhardt and Lillian Anderson, winners of the prize offered by Mrs. W. Z. Stuart for writing the best essay on aviation as an international peace move, and who have been spending the last week at Washington, D. C., will return Friday. The prize was a week's visit to the national capitol, with side trips to Annapolis and other places of interest in the vicinity.

BOY BRIGADERS BREAK
CAMP AND COME HOME

Neenah—The Boys' Brigade at Onaway Island for the last eight days broke up Thursday morning and the boys arrived home shortly before noon. While they had a good time, bad weather held sway through most of the outing. None of the boys were ill and there were no accidents.

Games to have been played July 4, will be played Friday evening of the present week with Bergstrom Papers and Kimberly-Clark at Columbia park; Leftingwell Drugs and Bell Telephone team at Doty park; and Bergstrom Stoves and Wisconsin-Michigan Light and Power team at Washington diamond.

4,765 WINNEBAGO-CO
HUNTERS LICENSED

Neenah—Winnebago-co furnished its share of the 5,750,000 hunters who obtained licenses last year for the taking of wild game, according to a report of the United States Department of Agriculture. The report shows that in Wisconsin a total of 155,843 licenses were issued of which 4,765 were issued in Winnebago-co. That number issued is 160 over that of 1927. A total of 479 trapping licenses were issued with a total of 15,000 trap tags in the county. Fees derived from these licenses by the state, totaled $146,046.10.

AGENT SUFFERS BROKEN
LEG IN FALL FROM TRAIN

Neenah—Daniel Bronkel, agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railway company at the E. Forest-ave station suffered a broken leg Wednesday afternoon and is at Theda Clark hospital for treatment. Mr. Bronkel attempted to step off the running board of the switch engine when his foot became caught and he fell. He was dragged a distance of about 25 feet before the train crew saw him and stopped the engine.

BUY HEATING PLANT

Neenah—Bids for a new heating plant at the public library will be opened Thursday evening by the library board and council committee.

NEENAH SOCIETY

A group of Neenah people drove to the home of John B. Olson at Larsen on Wednesday evening, to assist him in celebrating his eighty-first birthday anniversary. The time was spent in a social manner.

Mrs. Melvin Stulp, Mrs. Cyril Hyland, Mrs. Leo Zick and Mrs. Floyd Burrows were at Appleton Wednesday evening to attend a club meeting at the home of Miss Ida Belle Coats.

A large group of young people attended the pavement dance Wednesday evening at Winneconne. The Aerial orchestra of Neenah furnished the music.

Mrs. John Schmelein was elected president Wednesday afternoon of the Ladies Aid society of First Evangelical church, at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. William Schuman. Others elected were Mrs. Edward Schultz, vice president; Mrs. Dan Hoffman, secretary; Mrs. Irwin Schultz, treasurer and Mrs. George Schultz, secretary of the flower committee.

FIRST BOAT FINISHES
IN 660-MILE CONTEST

Hamilton, Bermuda—(AP)—The yawl Rogusa II, owned by Russell Grinnell, crossed the finish line of the New London-Bermuda yacht race at 10:40 o'clock Wednesday night.

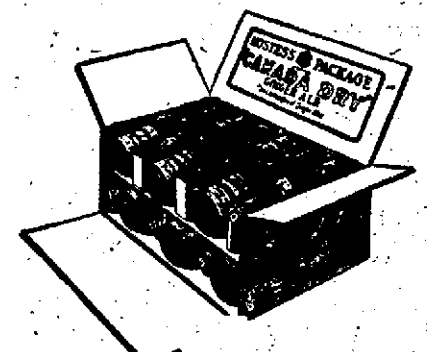

The Rogusa II sailed from New London, Conn., on June 23 with 25 other yachts in various classes over the famous 660-mile course from Sarah's ledge off New London to one of the farthest buoys off St. David light, Bermuda. The yawl had a time allowance of 6 hours and 54 minutes. It is expected that the remainder of the contestants will finish in the course of the day.

From CREDIT to CASH

On and after July 1st we will Sell For Cash Only.

After a long period of consideration we have decided to change our system of doing business to a strictly cash basis. This change of store policy is made in your interest as well as our own. You will be given the benefit of our decreased "overhead" by corresponding LOWER PRICES. It means we will be in a position to furnish you and all our customers, goods AT LESS MARGIN OF PROFIT than we have been able to do on the credit plan.

IT PAYS TO BUY FOR CASH

Cash saves you money because it saves us money. We don't have to charge more to cover lost accounts, collection fees, postage and interest on borrowed money at the bank when we "get in a pinch" for money to pay our bills. If you pay cash it will enable us to pick up "snaps" offered to the cash buyers.

CASH SELLING IS CO-OPERATING TRADING

It is unfair to make a person who gives spot cash, pay the same price for the same article that is charged to another, and await his convenience for the money. Let us all be on the same basis; all pay cash.

The saving we make under the cash plan we will in turn pass on to you. LET'S CO-OPERATE.

CASH BUSINESS IS BETTER FOR THE GENERAL
GOOD OF THE WHOLE COMMUNITY

We adopt this policy with the kindest feeling toward these customers who have had charge accounts with us for many years, but with the sound conviction that we are inaugurating a policy which will result in lower prices to our customers and a decided step forward in progressive merchandising.

Then join us in a united effort to put this plan across and we will MAKE IT PAY TO PAY CASH.

RICKARD AT HOUSTON IN PRIVATE CAR; LEFT, BROKE, 33 YEARS AGO

World's Greatest Sportsman
Returns to Scene of Early
Adventures

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Houston — Tex Rickard came to Houston in a private car to see the Democratic national convention.

If he had walked out on the street and been identified he would have been followed by a larger crowd than could be drawn by any politician in town.

When Rickard left Texas 33 years ago to seek his fortune he went without a dollar in his pocket. His last job in Texas was the city marshalship of Henrietta, in the Panhandle, which paid him $20 a month.

Today he is a millionaire and is known as the world's greatest showman.

Rickard might have come to Houston in a yacht had he desired to bring Jimmy Walker and other New York celebrities by that means of transportation. His family came to Texas first in 1871. Rickard, one year old, traveled in a prairie schooner or covered wagon.

In subsequent years little Tex looted cotton and did other necessary farm work to help the family break even on food and clothing.

Now he has two Japanese land-seapers working on his property in Miami Beach, which he bought just recently. He promises to bring plants and flowers from all over the world to set off his new twelve-room house.

Each winter he sails his yacht to Miami Beach. It's a fine yacht. He bought it from Walter P. Chrysler, the automobile manufacturer. It ran 30 miles an hour in a recent race on the Hudson and it did Rickard's heart good, he says, to pack the yachts of other millionaires for the first time.

Rickard says his greatest pleasure is to take on board old friends who were never before on a yacht. He has a lot of friends, accumulated during his many years in the prizefighting business.

"How much were you worth when you left Texas?" Rickard was asked. "I didn't have any money," he replied.

"How much have you now?" "Well, the boys say about two millions in the bank," said Rickard, with a modest gesture.

It developed that Tex had a million dollars in cold cash in the bank of New York. He professes cash and remarks with satisfaction that he was not heavily involved in the recent stock market crash. He still thinks the market is too high and will avoid speculation stocks in favor of gilt edge securities.

Rickard has made and lost four fortunes, he admits. One he made in Alaskan mining, another in the Nevada mines, another in land in Paraguay and a fourth in the fight business.

"This is a nice little show here," admitted Tex referring to the convention, but he admitted that he didn't think anyone else could stage shows like his.

"My shows are the biggest shows in the world," he explained.

"I suppose the hotels here have

COUNTY COUNCIL OF LEGION MEETS TONIGHT

This June meeting of the county council of the American legion will be held Thursday evening at Grand View hotel, Kaukauna. The legionnaires will discuss possibility of getting representatives from all county posts to attend the state convention of the organization at Wausau next month.

New officers of the council elected at the last meeting at Houstonville will have charge of Thursday's session. They are Donald Mahewson, Hortonville, president; Matthew Reynebeau, Little Chute, vice president; Oscar Bluke, Kimberly, treasurer; and Alfred Bosser, Appleton, secretary. Mr. Bosser was the only officer re-elected.

about 20,000 visitors, but I have packed the hotels of Chicago and jammed the hotels of Philadelphia."

Rickard was readier to talk prize-fight business than politics. He said Gene Tunney was more popular than he was generally supposed to be and that putting on a prize-fight was for him no longer a gamble—"Just a cinch."

He has forsaken gambling as a pastime and is able to live on the income of what he has. He promises to spend most of that on entertaining his friends.

Rickard's advance in life since he left Texas in 1895 was fairly well illustrated by the remark of a taxicab driver to this writer a short time after the Rickard special car arrived in Houston.

"Dja know Rickard was in town?" he asked. "There's one guy I want to see."

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

How many of today's questions can you answer? Score low-all.

TODAY'S HAND

♠XX
♥XX
♦XXX ♣KQXXX

1. What should South (Dealer) declare, holding the above hand?
2. What should West (Second Hand) declare with it; South having bid No Trump?
3. What should North (Third Hand) declare with it; South having bid one Diamond and West having passed?

THE ANSWERS

1. Two Clubs. The original bid of two of a suit to show Ace-King-Queen and at least three others is now generally approved by sound and expert Auction Bridge players. There are some players who announce that they never bid two originally; but these few never yet have explained why they deprive themselves of this privilege when nothing is gained by doing so. The bid of two does not have to be made with all hands which justify it; but with just such a hand as the above, it may be of the greatest value to the partner to know what Clubs the initial bidder holds.
2. Pass; to bid would be inexcusable. The chances are that if the No Trump stand, game can be saved; and that a Club bid by West would steer North or South into a Major bid which probably would give them game. Of course South may have the Clubs stopped and may be able to make game at No Trump; but even if that be the case the chances are that the adversaries also would have game in the Major suit which best fitted their combined hands.

3. Two Clubs. The fact that the partner of an initial bidder who starts by bidding one of a Minor, has normal support for the Minor, does not mean that strength in the other Minor should not be shown. At a love score, Minor games are not probable and it is important that the partners communicate their strength to each other. In this case it really might be that South has refrained from bidding No Trump because of the menace of a singleton Club in his hand, and the Club bid by North might be all that was needed to steer him into a winning declaration.

WARY HOOPLE SEES NEED FOR DISCRETION

bore me anyhow. Both myself and Connelly claim the distinction of being the president of the Exalted Order of International Gate-Crashers. That explains the fiction between us. That I have Connelly bettered by one experience has always nettled him. I gained admittance to the coronation of King George, by convincing the guards that I was a barber and waltz the royal band, and had in a satchel the gold comb and brush to attend the grooming of the head should such occasion arise during the ceremony, by Jove.

My sympathy for Connelly's treatment became more intense when I observed the size of guns the Houston police carry exposed on their hips. I don't know if the police are referred to as rangers, but their guns are as big as kitchen ranges. Without exaggeration you could stuff a hooper in the barrel, fire a shot and have a hot chicken. Egad. Best of luck, my friends. The size of the gun is no bearing on my resolution not to enter the hall, but men in need of.

Leaving the convention ground in great contempt, I stopped at a refreshment stand to quench my ardor with a bottle of near beer. A souvenir was attached to the neck of each bottle in the shape of a toy Democratic donkey. Being blessed with a keen sense of humor, I asked the waiter if the donkey was supposed to supply the kick of the brew. Becoming so convulsed with laughter at my clever sally I hurried to a dentist and had an old molar extracted while I was still guffawing, thus saving the expense of taking laughing gas, by Jove.

ADVANCING TOWARD WORLD PEACE

Secretary Kellogg's latest note on the subject of a multilateral treaty between fourteen nations outlawing war is well calculated to advance the standing of this highly important proposal. He expresses his satisfaction with the cordial tone of the response he has received to his original suggestion. There is plainly a touch of optimism in the secretary's renewal of negotiations which seems to warrant more than a hope of ultimate success. He evidently is of the opinion that the differences which remain to be adjusted are those of form rather than of substance, and that they can be cleared away.

For the time being he limits the changes he would make in the first draft to an expression that "any signatory power which shall hereafter seek to promote its national interests by resort to war shall be denied the benefits furnished by this treaty." This is particularly to meet the views of France and other nations who wish to put the defending nation in the best possible light in the event of a war of aggression.

Mr. Kellogg says as to the points raised by other governments, referring undoubtedly to Great Britain more than any other, they can "be satisfactorily met and general agreement upon the text of the treaty to be signed promptly reached." In other words, the state department is not particular about the exact phraseology of the treaty. What it is concerned with is an agreement of practical value for the renunciation of war. We do not want loopholes that will make it possible for offending nations to ignore or scarp the treaty without suffering consequences they will hesitate to incur. We want to make it impossible, if such a thing can be done, for any of the signatories in the future to embark in war without inviting self-destruction.

Mr. Kellogg's note reveals an attitude of mind determined to obtain results, and to not let quibbling over words and phrases nullify the great undertaking upon which the attention of the entire world is now concentrated. It is a spirit which ought to prevail, and have the full and necessary cooperation of all the nations invited to engage in the enterprise. It is a case where only the wide horizon of a statesman's vision can triumph and where the limited sight of politicians' eyes is of no avail. Nations must look at peace in a large way, and be prepared to do morally great things if war is to be banished. When they do that they will be surprised at the ease with which this monster has been conquered.

FIVE CENT AIR MAIL

The postmaster general has formally ordered air mail postage reduced to five cents beginning August 1, in pursuance of the rate change voted by congress. That is the highest value ever offered the American mailing public.

Beginning August 1 a Buffalo nickel will buy the fastest postal service possible for an American citizen's one-ounce letter. Nothing invented to date could bring it to its destination any sooner, whatever the price he offered. It will buy prompt transit to the nearest airmail port, and then it will purchase the skill and nerve of a series of adventurers who will take it no matter what the storm, wind, heat or cold to the end of the airmail network nearest the address. From there it will be conveyed by the usual mail service.

The greatest single item purchased will be a share in the willingness of brave men to risk their lives. There is no price we can put upon this willingness, of course, which really measures it. Despite more than thirty deaths from crashes the demand for piloting jobs is so great that the government can pick and choose aviators at ridiculous salaries. But a generous public welcome for the new airmail rate will be the best possible way of showing appreciation for this service which made Lindbergh possible and has on his pilot roster many unsung Lindberghs of tomorrow. It is true to say that air mail is and remains the backbone of flying in America. It is the easiest way to get the average citizen to regard aviation as a commonplace servant in his routine life. It trains flyers. It makes us increasingly air-minded the more we use it. At half the present price there should not only be double the customers; airmail should take a genuine boom in public favor. That is the one way we can show appreciation of the pioneer work of these men.

JUNE TEN YEARS AGO

In this fine month of June, so filled with politics and the talk of them, it is too easy to forget that June ten years ago was one of the most glorious months in American military history. This is the tenth anniversary of the month-long battle which made possible the capture and holding of Chateau-Thierry, Belleau Wood and Bourresches, broke the German drive and set the stage for the great advance of the following month.

American schoolboys who know all about Valley Forge and Gettysburg and even Waterloo are too little versed in the battles of ten years ago in which the behavior of American troops raised the badly "shot" allied morale, broke the morale of the German divisions opposing them, established the strength of American arms and the meaning of the millions of our troops who were crossing the sea—and, of course, stopped the German drive on Paris.

Some of the Americans who were engaged in this great battle do not know to this day what part it played in the general scheme of the war; what the orders were of which their own action formed a part; what their route was to the front, whom they relieved, what the German command was trying to do, and just how important it was to stop them. Captured German reports on the questioning of American prisoners show that many of our men had never seen a map and could not describe the roads or villages through which they marched. All that many of them knew was that they had cogly taken formation, set their rifle sights as they had been taught at Quantico and the other training grounds, picked their man out of the advancing gray horde, fired straight until the enemy broke and ran, and then moved forward in a nightmare of flame and sharp steel and death for day after exhausting day of steady fighting.

The story of June, 1918, is a glorious American story which should be known more in detail not only by young Americans who took part in it but by their juniors. There are numerous admirable accounts of this turning-point month in the war. They deserve to be as popular as the accounts of other victories in the more distant past.

INTERNATIONAL FAMILIARITY

Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. national council, told a meeting of New York business men the other day that as nations are being brought closer together by improved transportation and communication they are reacting on each other "with increasing virulence" and are thereby drifting gradually closer toward war.

That is rather surprising. We used to assume that bringing the nations closer together would make them more neighborly; every advance in transportation and communication, such as the airplane and the radio, has been hailed as a force that would make for world peace. But Dr. Mott doesn't see it that way.

Maybe it's only natural that it should work out that way, at first. Individuals often remain more friendly if they don't see each other too often; it's usually easier to be friends with a man living a block away than with the next-door neighbor. Perhaps it's the same with nations.

A train was delayed in New Jersey the other day because a woman was chasing her husband down the tracks with a hatchet. He hum, probably she thought an ax was too heavy.

A dispatch says there have been few insect pests this year. But possibly the statistician has overlooked the people who like to hear their horns in the Sunday parade.

Questionnaires sent to the alumni of Oberlin will be used to adjust the salaries of the faculty members. What a grand opportunity for the fellow who fumbled in Latin!

George Gershwin, composer of "Rhapsody in Blue," is writing a new symphony and is using automobile horns to furnish the inspiration. He ought to call this one "Rhapsody in Blue language."

Amelia Earhart has received several dozen poems in commemoration of her transatlantic flight. She has our sympathy.

Sometimes when the ladies pause to look into the store windows they are merely pausing for reflection.

The radio is to be used largely in the presidential campaign. And with static what it is in summer, too!

The Nationalists have renamed Peking "Telping." Not so very much difference.

A plumber in Memphis, Tenn., was robbed by taxicab bandits. They ought to get a medal.

Headlines you never see: "No, I Never Read Books," Says Movie Star.

FIRST AID OF SPRAINED ANKLES

The practice of subjecting injuries to X-ray examination, which is becoming almost universal, has taught us that many injuries which we formerly called sprains are in reality fractures of bone. It is different from break and break is different from crack, but to a doctor it is all the same thing. Then, too, the lully is confused about the meaning of our somewhat archaic medical term "compound" fracture. There are several breaks. But really, it means that there is a wound of the skin or mucous surface through which germs (infection) may reach the site of the break or fracture of bone, and such a condition or complication makes the injury more grave. To the lay mind a "cracked" rib or other bone means that the break doesn't completely divide the bone into fragments but is only a fissure extending part of the way across the bone. When ribs are fractured they are broken, not "cracked." There is a peculiar fracture called "green stick fracture" sometimes seen in young persons—the bone is bent but not divided into fragments.

In most severe sprains of the ankle probably spicules of bone are broken off from the condyles or ends of the tibia and femur. What of it? It makes little difference with the treatment as a rule. But if it happens to be quite a chip of bone the treatment necessary for satisfactory functional results will be different, and so it is a good policy to subject every bad sprain to X-ray examination as soon as this may be convenient.

Whether the victim can or does move his foot or stand on it or walk on it is no criterion. He may do these things with a broken bone; he may be unable to do them with a simple sprain.

A sprain is, of course, a stretching and more or less tearing or rupture of tendons, ligaments and other tissues about a joint, from violence.

Slight sprain is best remedied by firmly bandaging the ankle with bandage, adhesive plaster, or a tightly laced high shoe, and continuing to walk on it.

More severe sprain is better treated by plunging the foot into water as hot as can be borne and keeping it in hot water for an hour or two, then a dressing such as would be applied for broken ankle. Subsequent treatment depends on the degree of swelling that follows the injury. If the swelling is not very great a massage should be started the next day, and applied two or three times daily with gradually increasing vigor. There is an old theory that alternating hot and cold applications (a few seconds or a fraction of a minute for each) hasten the absorption and removal of the fluid or the extravasated blood after such injuries, but skillful massage is probably a great deal more effective.

In some cases an ankle once sprained remains weakened for a long time, and therefore is more likely to be sprained again. This might require the wearing of an elastic stocking or other support. The use of arnica or of liniment in the first aid relief of sprained ankle is a question for the patient to answer. I think I'd prefer a painting of the ankle with iodine. In sprains that cause prolonged disability, the use of iodine is helpful, enabling the tissues to walk in comfort.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Oh, Shingles!

Kindly tell me what shingles? What causes it? What are the symptoms? What is the cure? (Mrs. B. M. J.)

Answer—Or in other words, I have pipe and some tobacco—You have a malady. This is a personal health service. By no line of reasoning can the mysterious distribution of symptoms and other morbid information be called a health service. However, if you or one in your charge has shingles, mention the fact and I'll be glad to send you the best advice I can, though of course I offer no medical advice.

Recently I clipped a recipe you gave for a paint to conceal white scars or similar blemishes of the skin. It was very satisfactory. But my supply is exhausted and I have mislaid the recipe. Will you kindly give it again. (Mrs. F. H. A.)

Answer—Mix 1 1/2 ounces of zinc oxide with 1 1/2 ounces of calamine, and drop two drams of glycerin, and one pint of water. Stir up and add, drop by drop, until a tint, to match the normal skin is obtained. Icthyol. Anywhere from 10 to 20 drops of ichthyol may be required. Dr. William A. Fussey recommends this recipe in his "Dermatology," particularly for concealing patches of whitened skin (leucoderma). Of course it is only a temporary paint.

His Case
 Kindly tell me if there is any cure for information of the brain. If so what is the treatment? (Miss B. C.)

Answer—That's my trouble. I have never found a permanent cure. But perhaps you meant to ask about inflammation of the brain. That is a popular name for meningitis. A serum injected into the spinal canal will cure some cases of epidemic meningitis.

TEN YEARS AGO

Thursday, June 27, 1918

General Pershing had selected a regiment then in France for service in Italy.

A total of 234,525 tons of shipping of allied and neutral cargo was sunk by German U-boats in May, G. Meisinger, county superintendent of schools, was at Seymour that day.

Thomas McGahn visited friends at Oshkosh that day.

Miss Ruth Greeley was visiting relatives at Shioccon.

The school budget for 1919 was fixed for $42,165, which was $1,000 more than the previous year.

The J. T. Reeve circle, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic were entertained the previous day at the cottage of Mrs. J. E. Voigt. Hostesses were Mrs. Voigt, Mrs. Edward Olmstead, Miss Leona Shepherd, Mrs. William Bruce and Mrs. Frank Koch.

Mrs. Henry Reuter and Mrs. C. H. Kelly were the prize winners at the annual picnic of the Elk ladies the previous afternoon at Elk hall.

Gordon Lathrop, son of Mrs. William Lathrop, 360 South River-st., and Miss Meta Hanson of Clintonville were married at 1 o'clock that afternoon.

Keeping to the straight and narrow path is becoming increasingly difficult these days—if you're a pedestrian.

TAXES ON POLITICAL MAP

Washington, D. C.

Texas, always the biggest spot on the map of the United States, was placed on the political map in a large way when the Democrats of that State grabbed off the National Convention of their party for 1928. Of greater importance, however, and probably the real objective of the Texans is the influx of people from the North and South and East. On the contrary, they are quite willing to have it known that their hospitality is as unbounded as their domain and that they have abundant room for all comers.

Just how much room they have may be understood when they point out that if Texas were as densely populated as one of the New England States, Massachusetts, they would have a population considerably greater than the present population of the entire United States, or approximately 130,000,000.

Equally illuminative is the fact that it is possible for a traveler to take a trip in Texas than the distance from New York to Chicago and still be within the confines of the State.

State Texans boast that they are gaining rapidly in population every year because their State is recognized as a land of promise and opportunity. Railroad traffic records, they say, show that since 1920 more than 100,000 people from Middle West States have poured into Texas annually, building up their cities and towns and putting more than two million acres of new land under cultivation since the close of the World War.

A BILLION-DOLLAR CROP
 Statisticians who revel in millions and billions find much to rejoice in the Lone Star State. With less than half her arable land under cultivation, Texas produces a billion-dollar crop in a good year. More than a billion dollars' worth of oil has been produced in the State in the last half-decade. Lignite deposits amount to billions of tons, so many that only imaginative estimates can be made, such, for example, as the comparison that Texas has more of this mineral wealth than the whole famous Ruhr region of Germany.

Approximately 16,000,000 head of livestock are to be found on Texas ranches and farms. Last year 1,500,000 cars of freight originated in Texas, and the railroads hauled almost 3,500,000 cars of freight across the State. Few people would think of Texas as a manufacturing state, but nevertheless its gross manufactured products for 1927 exceeded in value 150 millions of dollars and Texans insist that is but a promise of the showing they will make in a few years.

An industry that is being rapidly developed in the State is the cotton industry. The State is still the biggest natural cotton producer in the United States, and it is logical that the State should have the mills to transform the raw material into the marketable finished product. There have been years when the Texas cotton crop amounted to more than 40 per cent of the total production in the United States, and in the record year, 1926, the crop totaled 5,530,831, 500-pound bales. Production per acre has fallen off, due largely to the ravages of the boll weevil, but by planting more land the total crop has been increased.

In the last six years the cotton acreage has been increased by about 5,500,000 acres.

In building up a cotton manufacturing industry, Texans claim to have three of the vital factors in the successful operation of the mills—an abundance of cheap labor, plenty of fuel for power, and the raw material immediately available. With these advantages they believe the industry should thrive.

OTHER CROPS TO COUNT ON

Over-production of cotton will hit and hurt Texas just as it does all the cotton-raising States, but the big State is fortunate in that it has much other mineral and crop wealth to fall back upon. Already the yearly mineral production of the State, exclusive of oil and gas, is valued at 70 millions. Last year Texas produced more oil than was produced in the entire United States in any year since 1912—more than 214,000,000 barrels, or more than one-sixth the total world production. The value of that oil crop has not been determined, but the year before a smaller production in quantity ran to more than 300 millions in dollars.

Potash is a mineral of which there are great expectations in Texas. Should they be realized, no foreign potash trust will be able to sand-bag the farmers of the United States. Of natural gas the supply is that of Nature in her most lavish mood.

Beef cattle once made Texas and Texans rich, and while the long-horn no longer ranges there, the State is still the biggest natural cow pasture in the United States, with millions of bigger and better cattle, and no American need worry about where his next steak or roast of beef is coming from as long as Texas finds cattle raising profitable.

And Texas does not set store alone by material wealth and prospects. When the State came into the Union it retained title to its public lands. Half of the public domain went to schools. A state university was endowed with 2,000,000 acres—not such a rich endowment at the outset, but oil has been discovered on that land and the university is now one of the richest in the country. The State supports almost a thousand newspapers and magazines, too, which is a recognized evidence of an enlightened and progressive population.

Some of that vast public domain, by the way, went to provide Texas with a state hospital which is second as a capitol only to the National Capitol in Washington. The builders were given 3,000,000 acres of public land. To-day that land is estimated to be worth in excess of 60 million dollars.

Not is it to be forgotten that Texas has a long port at Galveston, and lesser ones along her 400 miles of Gulf coast line, and that ocean vessels may even go up to Houston through a canal with a 30-foot channel.

A good many years ago a famous general was lodged with having said that if he owned Texas and Hell he would rent the former and live in the latter. It was a good joke, even though it took Texans a long time to be able to appreciate it. Now, however, they think the joke is on the general—if he is so situated that he can see and appreciate what a wonderland Texas has become.

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

HARDENING OF ARTERIES SIGN OF BODY WEAR

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBURN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The arteries are the blood vessels that carry the blood directly from the heart to the farthest portions of the body.

In order for the circulation to go on, the blood must leave the heart with a considerable amount of pressure. The walls of the blood vessels are composed of muscle and of elastic tissue.

There is about twice as much elastic tissue as muscle in the largest arteries and much less in the smaller ones. The amount of stretching in the vessels and the amount of resistance to the passage of the blood stream are factors which influence to some extent the blood pressure.

THE PRICE OF AGE
 As the human body becomes older the elastic tissue of the blood vessel walls tends to diminish both in amount and in its ability to stretch exactly as the rubber in any elastic preparation tends to weaken with age.

As the elastic tissue breaks down, its place is taken by other fibers known as fibrous or connective tissue. As these develop in the walls of the blood vessels, the walls become hardened and resist stretching.

Naturally this resistance to stretching tends to raise the blood pressure.

Under such conditions fatty materials deposit and also calcium salts. Such calcification tends to strain a blood vessel, which resists even more the necessary stretching associated with the passage of the blood, and thereby brings an extremely high blood pressure.

When the current of blood is sluggish in its flow or when it is interfered with by inflammation of the blood vessel wall, blocking of the vessel may take place. Sometimes the blood vessel breaks and if it breaks in the brain the person has apoplexy.

Apparently many causes are associated with the changes that go on in the blood vessels and with the bringing about of high blood pressure.

All of these causes are of the type that put increased wear on the human body either by overwork or by the production of poisons which are difficult for the tissues to handle. The control of such conditions depends on a suitable hygiene throughout life.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swann

New York—Random notes from a Manhattan ramble: . . . Joe Rayens, who has been a stage-dorman for 17 years . . . Perched in the little cubbyhole "backstage" of the Winter Garden, Joe can tell you of a time when Al Jolson, Kitty Gordon and Stella Mayhew were all on the same bill and just "members of the company" . . . He can tell you of the time Gaby Deslys arrived from Paris and he earned more than his salary keeping back the curious crowds. He knew George White When George was a hooper. And Annette Kellerman was considered quite naughty because she did a diving act in very tight trunks . . . But Joe was all very long ago.

To Joe, after 17 years, a chorine is a chorine. . . . She is a noisy creature who comes babbling through the door, chirps, wise cracks and is inclined to be noisy. . . . He has learned to give little heed to all the chatter about his friends and sport cars and week ends at Atlantic City. . . . He's heard all that smokes where before. . . . Joe smiles tolerantly as the cycle makes its rounds and old faces go and new faces come.

The telephone booths at Joe Leblang's ticket office. . . . Particularly about 7 o'clock. . . . Which is the hour many of the boys suddenly remember dates made at the office. . . . Or when papa explains why he won't be home. . . . Or when mama does likewise. . . . Or when the girls try to fix up a last minute supper engagement. . . . tattered telephone books each night tell the tale of the battle.

To Sardis for lunch and note the walls are now covered with cartoons of what New York pleases to call celebrities, but few of whom ever have heard of the other side of the Harlem river. . . . And there I learned that there are now more Broadway columns than there are blocks in the length of the highway. . . . Within the last month, I am told, five magazines and gossip weeklies have added such departments.

Every daily paper in Manhattan has such a feature. . . . To say nothing of young men. . . . I like myself, and they are trying to get along with it. . . . If they don't look out they'll put New York on the map.

And fell to talking with Leslie Fenton, who has been down in Maryland with the Cooper-Fay Wray film and is trying to get along with it. . . . He learned that the movie men have a great deal in their midst, for such he is for he has a volume of verse ready for the publisher. . . . And he's most interested. I learned, in Countee Cullen, the young negro poet of Harlem. . . . And he told me, a pleasant yarn of a tiny pickaninny he had met on location in Maryland, who came up to him one night and said: "There's a right pretty moon tonight, mister!"

And the way the tiny dinky said it told Fenton that there was a man worth watching. . . . So he snuggled the little fellow on his back, hiding him in a berth. . . . All of which was discovered and the "little pick" was sent back home.

And so back to the office to write!

K. C.'S SEND STONE TO SCOUT SCHOOL

Will Receive Instructions in How to Organize and Handle New Troops

Ivan Stone, assistant scoutmaster of Troop one, Boy Scouts, of St. Joseph church, will attend the scout leaders training school at Notre Dame, Ind., July 15 to 24. It was decided at a meeting of Knights of Columbus Thursday evening at the Catholic home.

The course for training scout leaders aims to prepare men to act as troop committeemen, scoutmasters, or assistant scoutmasters in a more thorough manner. It acquaints pastore with the ideals, principles and policies of the boy scout movement and demonstrates the technique involved in the administration of the program.

The course demonstrates the manner in which the scouting program correlates itself with the church program and the program of the Catholic parish. It outlines the services activities of scouting in the church and parish school.

It is expected that on his return from the school, he will be able to organize and handle, in addition to the present troop, a new troop at the new St. Theresa church and parish school, according to Mr. Clark.

RULE COUNTY AGENT CAN HOLD TWO JOBS

Madison (AP)—County agricultural agents may also serve as secretary of the county fair association, the attorney general has advised L. E. Gooding, district attorney of Fond du Lac.

The duties of the two officers do not conflict, there is nothing in the statutes requiring that either officer devote his entire time to the work of either job, and the two posts are in no way incompatible, the opinion said.

Miss Hertha Rhode submitted to a written operation Tuesday at St. Elizabeth hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Mielke left for Milwaukee Monday returning Wednesday.

Miss Lorraine Erickson of the Island school, town of Greenville, has been neither tardy nor absent for the past five years. Leona Anderson of the same school has a perfect attendance for the past four years and Donald Anderson for the past two years.

ENGINEERS MAKING PLANS FOR NEW ROAD

Work Will Start as Soon as Bonds Are Sold, Commissioner Says

Plans for paving county trunk Z on the south side of the Fox river from Appleton to Kaukauna are to be completed this week by R. M. Connelly, Appleton, and F. R. Charlesworth, Kaukauna, engineers. As soon as the plans have been finished, the county highway committee will make arrangements to advertise for bids for the work, which is expected to be completed this summer.

Funds for the improvement will be provided through the sale of a bond issue of $175,000, authorized by the county board at its April session. The issues provides funds for road improvements in various towns in the county.

The work in the various towns will be started as soon as funds are available, according to A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner.

MORE AND MORE PEOPLE HAVE CANINES LICENSED

More than 995 Appleton dogs have been licensed so far this year, according to Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer. Last year there were a few more than 900 dogs licensed and the 1928 figures show that more people have dogs or are taking the trouble to have them licensed. Unlicensed dogs are killed by police officers whenever caught. The license fee is $1 for males and $2 for females.

Picnics On Holiday For
The Family

BY ALLENE SUMNER

I WENT to the grocery store the other night. It was the night before a holiday, which is why the store was open in the evening. I anticipated a long waiting in line, and said divers uncomplimentary things about the servant problem, the expected company and the impossibility of getting in the order in time for delivery. But there was no line. The clerk tumbled over themselves in an endeavor to be useful. There was no more sign of a summer holiday in this store than a pair of rhinoceri with gold-filled tusks.

"Had a busy day, I suppose?" I attempted to make conversation with the clerk. "Just an ordinary day," he said. "Didn't really do as much business as on Monday." Then warming up to his theme and his grievance, he went on:

"Holidays don't mean anything to the grocery store any more. People don't go on picnics, and they don't even eat at home. It's the car, everybody gets in the car and drives to some hotel or farmhouse or roadhouse or inn which has a reputation for good food. The grocery man's out of luck."

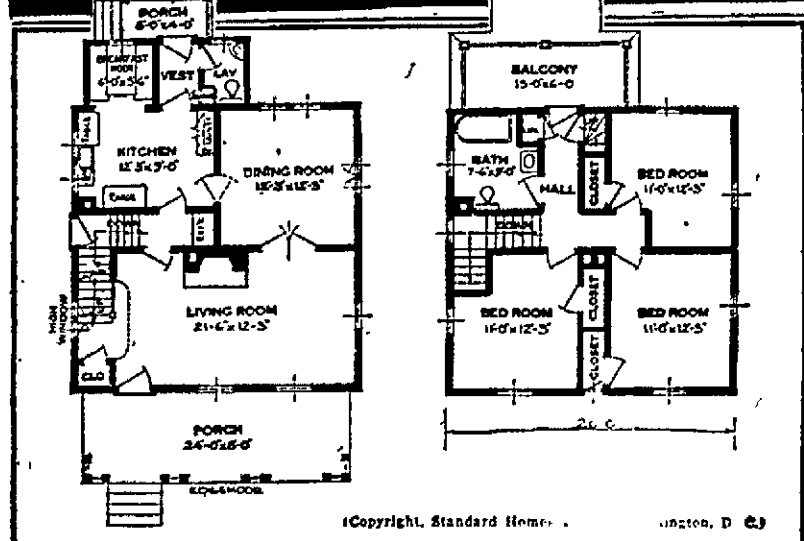

It's one of those conditions of course, which most everybody just takes for granted, and never is moved to wonder upon. But some of us who were born and reared in the holiday habit can no more think of Fourth of July and Decorations Days and Labor Days without a picnic basket than we can imagine Christmas without snow and holly wreaths.

And everybody else in the world may "eat out" on holidays, but we fuss and stew and tire ourselves out and buy and pack and worry over whether we've forgotten the salt and the squeezed lemon, just to sit down under an oak tree and munch sardines and hard-boiled eggs and cold ham sandwiches and pickles and cheese and potato salad and cold baked beans and bananas and oranges and cookies and iced lemonade. Thus endeth the day's bill of fare!

SIMPLICITY AND THRIFT

THE EDGEMOOR preserves the American tradition of simplicity and thrift.

For it is utterly simple in its lines, with no extra decorations to spoil it. And every inch of space is utilized to the best advantage.

In the Edgemoor we find the kind of roomy front porch that is associated with former days, when staying at home was the rule, not the exception.

The front door gives hospitality onto the long living room. Entering, one sees first of all the cheery fireplace.

The Edgemoor, in accordance with American tradition also, furnishes its owner every conceivable convenience in its cozy kitchen, breakfast nook, roomy built-in cabinets, closets for clothes, ironing boards and so on. Off the kitchen is a lavatory and outdoors a little porch to rest where a breath of air may be snatched.

Ventilating windows on the third floor ensure cool bedrooms for hot summer months. There are three quite sizable rooms, each with a closet and off the back hall a balcony.

The cost of the Edgemoor is from $4000 to $6,000.

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dearest Mom:

I know I am a trial to you, at times, and possibly, as you suggest, I am sometimes more than my husband bargained for when he so blithely escorted me to the altar. But I'm about to reform. Perhaps, after all, I have been riding for a fall, and deserved the slightly scrambled face I now exhibit.

As I told you, Cousin Julia came in on Alan and me just after our big scene, when we had all but hurled the crockery at each other. Alan was so furious with me, and with Pede, and with life generally that I think he would have ducked, had it been anyone but Julia.

She is a woman of poise, for she came into our troubled midst as though she were entering a calm retreat, and the way she poured oil on the troubled waters was nobody's business.

Alan and I were able to say quite rationally to her what we never could say to each other.

In my brief but brilliant career as a wife, I have learned that the hardest person to talk reasonably to is my husband. I can wheedle him, I can scold him, I can jolly him and kid him, but when it comes to talking sense to him, at a time when a little common sense is needed, he never will listen.

We seem always to lose our tempers or become personal when we try to be reasonable. Then we have a violent quarrel. After the quarrel, we always have a reconciliation, but it is an emotional one rather than an intellectual one.

And the real issue that caused our quarrel is never settled, and hangs there, dangling before our eyes, and furnishes material for another quarrel before long.

Julia took no sides and acted the role of the impartial and impassioned judge, who rendered no decision, just left it up to the contesting parties. But I felt just as Alan said he felt—like a cheap ham actor before the evening was over.

Julia agreed with you, that I have too much energy, and too little to do. She said it would be better for me to have a job that gave me some outlet for my activities, if I couldn't adjust my life without one.

But she also agreed with you, that since I had the time and the opportunity to develop myself and supplement my education here, it was too bad not to improve my opportunities, and be more myself, not just do more. So she is going to help me work out a scheme where I combine work and play and become one of these all-around persons. So watch out, I may be a knock-out yet!

Loads of love, MARYE.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

WHILE all the tired old Tinies slept, a very careful watch was kept by several little monkeys who were quiet as could be. Some in a circle gathered round and did their guarding on the ground, while others scampered upward and were watchmen in a tree.

When morning came, the sun rose high and Scouty, waking, said, "Oh, my! Who brought this pile of berries? Hey! Wake up there, Tinies, quick! We have our breakfast, here at hand, but, say I cannot understand just where these berries came from: 'Tess the monkey pulled the trick."

That guess was absolutely right. The monkeys, in the dark of night, had picked the little berries and then put them in a pile. One of the berries Copy tried and then he smiled and loudly cried, "They're good! Come on, let's eat. Then we'll go swimming after while."

Soon Clowny said, "These taste all right." The monkeys squeaked in keen delight. "How glad they seem to see us eat," said Copy, with a grin. "I think we'd better feed them too. 'Twould be a kindly thing to do. A bit of food won't hurt them, 'cause they all look rather thin."

"All right, you feed them," Clowny said. "Meanwhile I think I'll go ahead and jump into this stream, so I'll feel good and fresh once more." Then Clowny promptly shed his clothes and as he jumped in said, "Here goes!" In just a moment something funny happened up on shore.

One monkey, always up to tricks, put Clowny in an awful fix. He grabbed all of his clothes and quickly dashed behind a tree. It wasn't long till he came out and all the bunch began to shout. He'd put on Clowny's things and quite a funny sight was he.

(The monkey runs away with Copy's clothes in the next story.) (Copyright, 1928, NEA Service, Inc.)

Party For Children At Country Club

CHILDREN'S day on July 4 at Riverview Country club will be observed with a gala celebration this year. Once a year on Independence day the club is host to the children and, as in other years, elaborate preparations are being made for the festive affair.

Organized play and games will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Children's movies will be shown and there will be prizes, favors, caps, tags and gifts for each child. A special children's supper will be served at five o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Fisher are chairman of the party and members of the committee are Mr. and Mrs. James Wieland, Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Wolter, Mr. and Mrs. John Pinkerton, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Bergstrom, Charles A. Henderson, Miss Jane Thomas and William Wing, Jr.

Parties at the club this week include a 1 o'clock luncheon Thursday afternoon for Mrs. Roy Peterson, 333 E. College, in honor of her daughter, Miss Louise, who recently returned from Milwaukee Downer college in Milwaukee. Miss Marston was graduated from Appleton high school last year. Out-of-town guests at the luncheon which was followed by a bridge were Miss Edith Shepherd of DeFere, Miss Ruth Smith and Miss Phyllis Helntz of Green Bay, Miss Priscilla Bishop and Miss Helen Wheeler of Oshkosh, Miss Alice Brigham and Miss Annette Brigham of Arcata, Calif., and Miss Alice Benzang of Buffalo, N. WISCONSIN WEATHER
Showers, probably tonight and Friday; not much change in temperature.

GENERAL WEATHER
The pressure is low this morning over the lower Missouri and central Missouri and southern Wisconsin plains states, with showers from Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River westward over much of the Great plains area. One center of this "low" is in position to cause intermittent rains in this section this afternoon and tonight and probably on Friday. A high pressure area overlies the eastern states, with mostly fair weather. Another slight "high" overlies the northwestern plains states, with clearing weather. This latter "high" should follow the "low" to this section, with clearing weather and a slight fall in temperature by Friday night.

The attendants. After a week's wedding trip to Columbus, O., the couple will live on a farm at Dale.

East Star Gets Ready For Autumn

PLANS for the first fall meeting of Eastern Star, were discussed at a meeting of the organization Wednesday evening at Masonic temple. This was the last meeting of the present season. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kemnitz, Green Bay, the former worthy patron of the Green Bay chapter of Eastern Star, attended the session.

The first fall meeting on Sept. 12 will be for initiation, the work to be put on by officers of the Manitowish chapter.

Local members of the Eastern Star also discussed arrangements for attending the annual state Masonic picnic at Dousman on July 7. DeMolay drills and a concert by the Commandery lodge of Milwaukee will feature the picnic. The Masonic home of Eastern Star hospital are located at Dousman.

HOLD CARD PARTY TO RAISE FUNDS FOR BOY SCOUTS

An open card party will be given at 8 o'clock Monday night, July 9, at the McKinley Junior high school for the purpose of raising money to send the Boy Scouts to camp and for buying equipment. Twelve prizes will be given. The committee on prizes is composed of Mrs. A. G. Tinkham, Mrs. Conrad Verbrick and Mrs. Joseph Hopfensperger, Mrs. Charles Sepp, Mrs. Frank VanderLinden, Mrs. Clyde Cavert and Mrs. Walter T. Fox will be members of the lunch committee.

The card committee is composed of Mrs. F. VanderLinden, in charge of dice and whist, Mrs. Frank Younger, in charge of the bridge, Conrad Verbrick in charge of skat and Joseph Hopfensperger in charge of plump-sack. Mr. Hopfensperger also will be in charge of the tables while Walter T. Fox and F. B. Younger will have charge of the chairs. Cards, scores and cups will be taken care of by H. Suckenberg. Rudolph Pfund will be in charge of the ticket sale.

CLUB OPEN ONLY IN MORNING HOURS

Appleton Womens club will be open in the morning hours only from June 28 to July 12, it was announced Thursday. The girls' camp at Onaway island will be conducted by the local club during that period.

URGE SCOUTS TO HIKE BEFORE CAMP OPENS

Boy Scout troops of the Fox river valley council are being urged by M. G. Clark, valley scout executive, to go on as many hikes as possible before the camp season opens on July 9.

Last week about 200 boys of Appleton and Kaukauna went on all-day hikes up and down the Fox river, according to Mr. Clark. While on the trips, the boys were instructed in project work, such as nature lore, campcraft, archery, bird lore, tracking, and other activities to be studied while the boys are at camp.

"Never-fail" Recipe for Crushed Strawberry Jam

Once you have tried the new short-bell method of making jams and jellies with Certo you will discard the old, tedious, uncertain way as an out-of-date piece of kitchen drudgery.

Ten glasses of the most delicious Strawberry Jam can be made by the following recipe quickly, easily and with perfect results every time.

Crush about 2 quarts of berries one layer at a time so that each berry is actually crushed or broken up to a pulp. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil, and prevents fruit rising to the top or floating. Best results are obtained by running berries through a food chopper. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries into a large kettle, add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard from 1 to 2 minutes, remove from fire and stir in 1/2 cup Certo. Skim and stir constantly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire to cool slightly, which prevents fruit floating. Then pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot paraffin wax.

Certo is the natural jelling substance which has been extracted from fruit, refined and bottled so that perfect jams and jellies can be made without long boiling.

Recommended by a famous expert in cookery Miss Alice Bradley, Principal, Miss Farmer's School of Cookery and Cooking Editor, Woman's Home Companion, says—

"I strongly advise all housewives to make all their jams and jellies with Certo because it's easier—Takes only one minute's boiling. Tastes better—No flavor boiled away. Better color—Not darkened by long boiling. No worry—Never fails to set. It's economical—Fifty per cent more from given amount of fruit and no waste from failures."

Get Certo today from your grocer. With each bottle comes a complete book of recipes for making better looking, better flavored jams and jellies the quick, easy Certo way.

MOOSE WOMEN HEAR REPORT OF CONVENTION

A report of the International convention of the Moose order was given by Mrs. F. J. Foreman at the regular meeting of the Women of Mooseheart Legion Wednesday night at Moose temple.

Plans were made for a picnic on June 17 at the Gehin cottage on Lake Winnebago. Mrs. William Eschner and Mrs. F. J. Foreman will have charge of the picnic. Three guests at the meeting were Mrs. J. McCoy, Mrs. George Wesson and Mrs. Charles Witte of Fond du Lac.

Members of the social committee for the meeting were Mrs. E. Peetor, chairman, Mrs. R. Hoffman, Mrs. G. Grabfelder, Mrs. M. Gaertner, Mrs. R. Willerson, Mrs. K. Leith, Miss Hertha Rhode, Mrs. A. Engleman, Mrs. E. Meyer and Mrs. M. Stallman. Members of the committee presented a mock wedding and Miss Florence Staedt gave a reading, "Lavinsky at the wedding."

Mrs. Foreman gave a general report of the convention and went into detail concerning the womens conference.

Among the helpful addresses given was a talk by Mrs. Savage of the M. A. chapter, a newspaper woman, on publicity. The Newport, R. I. chapter won the prize for the most publicity during the year. Margaret Hackett of Philadelphia chapter, was the instigator of a movement to build a bungalow at Moosehaven, Fla. and in behalf of the Philadelphia lodge pledged $2,500.

Mrs. Foreman attended the class play presented by the senior class of the high school at Mooseheart and the graduating exercises for the class of 34 boys and girls.

CARD PARTIES

The Ritelef bridge club was entertained by Mrs. Robert Grandemann Tuesday evening at her home on N. Second-st. Prizes were won by Mrs. Ray Schreiter, Mrs. Ernest Femal, and Mrs. Charles Vanderlinden. The club will meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Manley Thompson, 1013 W. Harris-st.

Women of St. Mary parish will give an open card party at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Columbia hall. Bridge and schafkopf will be played.

LODGE NEWS

Members of the Womens Catholic Order of Foresters were entertained at a social meeting Wednesday night at Catholic home. Bridge and schafkopf were played and bridge honors went to Mrs. Peter Brown and Miss Clara O'Connor. Mrs. Joseph Schreiter and Mrs. John Manville won the prizes at schafkopf. Guest prizes were presented to Mrs. William McGinnis of Portland, Ore., and Mrs. Ruth Hayes, Minneapolis. Both Mrs. McGinnis and Mrs. Hayes are members of the order and are visiting in the city. Thirty-five persons were present at the meeting. Members of the social and refreshment committee were Mrs. E. C. Otto and Mrs. Joseph Doerfler.

The Ladies Auxiliary of Eagles met for a short business meeting and cards Wednesday night at Eagle hall. Fourteen table of cards were in play and prizes at schafkopf were won by Mrs. Frank Verrier, Mrs. John Brandt and Mrs. Matt Verkulien. Dice winners were Mrs. Jenny Feavel and Mrs. William Deltour. Members of the social committee were Mrs. Olga Polzin, Mrs. Mary Boehm, Mrs. Katherine Henry, Mrs. Jessie Feavel, Mrs. Anna Deltour and Mrs. Sadie Deltour.

An out door meeting of the Three Links club has been planned for the second Wednesday in July if the weather is favorable. A short business meeting of the club Wednesday afternoon at Odd Fellow hall was followed by an informal social hour. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lena Pynn, Mrs. Tony Scherweke and Mrs. Alice Maime. Twenty members were present.

About 100 persons are expected to attend the district meeting of Odd Fellows at 8 o'clock Saturday night at Odd Fellow hall. The degree team of the Stockbridge lodge will confer the second degree on a class of candidates at the meeting. Seven lodges are members of the district. There are three lodges from Oshkosh and lodges from Menasha, Stockbridge, Kaukauna and this city. A social hour with refreshments will follow the meeting. Members of the committee for the occasion are John McCarthy, Richard Van Wye, W. S. Patterson and Oscar Ballinger. Officers will be installed at the regular meeting of Konomic lodge Monday night at Odd Fellow hall.

TEACH PAINTING IN CLASSES AT WOMAN'S CLUB

A summer painting class under Mrs. Mark Catlin will be conducted at the Playhouse of Appleton Womens club every Tuesday morning from 9 to 12 o'clock, beginning July 3. Twelve lessons will be offered between now and September.

The class is open to any one interested in painting irrespective of age. Non-members of the club can attend indoor work, flower study, and still life work will be offered. An exhibit will be held at the end of the term.

GIRLS BRAVE RAIN TO START FOR ISLE CAMP

Rain failed to dampen the spirits of nearly one hundred big and little girls who left Thursday morning from the Appleton Womens club for Onaway camp. Knickers, slickers, baw-bundles, lunch kits, heaped the hallway and porch of the club; the red topped bus, baggage truck, and private cars surrounded the club house where the whole spirit was like the sentiment voiced on the sunny round white cap of a small girl—"out for a good time."

HOLD SERVICES FOR
RESIDENT OF MANAWA

Special to Post-Crescent

Manawa—Funeral services for Samuel Cochran Collins of Manawa, were held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. W. Bigford, here on Monday, the Rev. F. W. Wright, pastor of the M. E. church, officiating. The body was then taken to Stockbridge, in Calumet-co, where services at the grave were conducted by the Rev. Petrick and interment took place in Lakeside cemetery by the side of his wife.

Mr. Collins died at his daughter's home last Thursday evening, June 21, following an illness of about two weeks with influenza. He was 87 years old, having been born at Saranac, Clinton county, New York, on May 24, 1841.

He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. W. W. Bigford, of Manawa, two brothers, Frank, 84, and Truman, 77, and one sister, Mrs. Roxy Heywood, 82, all of whom are residents of villages hidden in the Adirondacks.

The fifth anniversary of the Anderson-Bates reunion was held at the farm home of Joe Ora near Manawa, Sunday. About 70 members gathered early in the day bringing well filled baskets of good things to eat and a picnic dinner was served at noon. During the afternoon, games were played and musical numbers were given by different members of the family.

The oldest member present was Mrs. Clara Bates Jeffers of Bonduel, 92 years old. The youngest members were Delpha May and Donald Ray Clumppner, children of Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Clumppner of Ogdensburg. The twins are seven months old.

STAGE And SCREEN

RAILSTON AND HAMILTON AGAIN JOINED IN THRILLING FARCE COMEDY

For the third time in rapid succession, Esther Ralston, the blonde Paramount star, and Neil Hamilton, popular screen juvenile, are again teamed to provide an entertaining story for the public. This time they are the leading pair in an unusual satirical, melodramatic farce mystery-comedy, "Something Always Happens," the picture which will show at Fischer's Appleton Theatre for three days starting tomorrow.

The new plot, written by Frank Tuttle who also directed the picture, reveals in thrills, original situations and action. It is strikingly at variance with the dramatic tales which this pair portrayed in "The Spotlight," nor is it akin to that rollicking comedy, "Love and Learn."

Miss Ralston and Hamilton are cast in a new setting, a haunted house, inhabited by characters with much more body than ghosts are credited with. They spend a thrilling night in mad terror, with plenty of laughs for the audience, and find little time for romancing throughout the picture.

There is an able cast behind the stars in this picture, including Sojin, the well-known oriental character man, Noble Johnson, the athlete, Lawrence Grant and Mischa Auer.

STAGE ATTRACTION AT FISCHER'S FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

Sharlot's Kiddle Revue, coming to Fischer's Appleton Theatre Friday, Saturday and Sunday, is composed of talent of most unusual merit. The youngsters hail from the four corners of the United States, and one was drafted from far away Havana, Cuba. The personnel of the revue is made up of "Wickie" Lee, acrobatic wonder, who hails from Dallas, Texas. Though only a baby, one might say, yet she has been a star on Southern Vaudeville Time, where she made a tremendous hit. Charline Anthony, child dancer supreme, who comes to Sharlot's Revue from Interstate Vaudeville Time. She does stunts, rarely ever executed by grown-ups and seasoned performers; Alyce Morris, child movie star who hails from Minneapolis, whose first glimpse of life was that "back stage" her parents having been trouper for many years. Her specialty is Tap Dancing; Joycie Hancock, ballad singer, known as "The Child Nightingale," who has just completed her third season on the Orpheum Circuit, and who is acclaimed a child artist of unusual merit; Lillian "Snooky" Allen, juvenile comedienne, whose antics arouse splitting and whose act is by itself worth the price of admission; Mary Isabell "Babe" Hassell, who hails from the Mexican Border, does the Clog Dancing in the Revue, and who is regarded an artist in her line. "Pat" Riley, the Jazz Singer—second youngest, needs only to be seen to be appreciated; Is a bid radio hit, and whose stage work is that of a finished actress. Last but not least we again introduce Lou Gay, Hula Dancer, and the "Baby Star," who hails from New Orleans. Little Miss Gay is the youngest of all, and the pet of the troupe. You must not miss "Lou."

"A WOMAN AGAINST THE WORLD"

A picture of intense interest and dramatic power "A Woman Against the World" is the feature attraction at the Elite today and Friday. It is one of those screen affairs that is filled with suspense throughout its unrolling and keeps to a story without a break in its continuity.

The outstanding artists are Harrison Ford and George Hale who give a polished characterization of their respective roles, the former as a young society man condemned to death and the girl as a reporter on a larger paper whose indefatigable efforts in his behalf save him from an inglorious death.

There are many highly exciting scenes in this different story of newspaper life, and the director, George Archambault is to be highly commended for his skill in placing upon the silver screen a story that holds the interest so well from the very beginning to the end.

Other members of the cast who give a very fine performance are Gertrude Olmstead, Lee Moran, Harvey Clarke, Sally Rand, Walter Hiers, William Tooker, Ida Darling, Rosemary Theby, Charles Clary, Jim Farley and Wade Boteler. The picture is an original story by Albert Shelby Le Vain and adapted for the screen by Gertrude Orr.

Shanklin, in the 1st of Wright, is claiming the longevity record. Sixteen of its inhabitants residing within 100 yards of one another have a combined age total of over 1300 years.

Two well-worn theories—that the more a man shaves the harder his beard grows and that beards grow more rapidly in warm weather—have been exploded by an American scientist.

An Englishman can leave his property away from his family; a Scotsman cannot.

APPLETON MARKSMEN TO SHOOT AT WAUSAU

Probable That Legion Men and Others Will Try Skill During Convention

Appleton and Oney Johnston post, American legion, probably will be represented by a rifle and pistol team at the shoot to be held as part of the state convention of the legion in August at Wausau. Members of the two teams have not been picked but because several members of the local rifle club are members of the legion it is believed no trouble will be had getting a squad.

The rifle schedule will be identical with that which was fired at the 1927 matches, as follows:

200 yards slow fire 10 shots.
200 yards rapid fire sitting or kneeling from standing 10 shots.
300 yards slow fire, prone 10 shots.
300 yards rapid fire prone from standing 10 shots.

Total shots per record 40; possible score 200. And rifle of not less than 30 caliber using metallic sight is permissible.

The pistol schedule in which guns of not less than 38 caliber will be used is:

15 yards rapid, 2 strings of 5 shots each.

25 yards rapid, 2 strings of 5 shots each.

25 yards time fire 10 shots.

50 yards time, fire 10 shots.

SOMETHING'S COMING!

ESTHER RALSTON AND NEIL HAMILTON IN "SOMETHING ALWAYS HAPPENS" AT FISCHER'S APPLETON THEATRE FRIDAY SATURDAY AND SUNDAY IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE STAGE FEATURE, SHARLOTS RUNAWAY KIDDIES.

REVIVE AGITATION FOR WIDER CORNER

Although property holders last fall brought a temporary halt to a move to build a new corner at W. Prospect and W. Carver-sts, interest in the project has again been started. The corner has been a source of trouble to motorists for several years although there have been few accidents. However, during the last few years increased use of the highway as a belt line for Highway 41, has resulted in a request that the sharp turn be taken out of the corner. The question of widening the corner probably will be brought to the attention of the street and bridge committee at its next meeting.

Celebration Dance, 12 Cors. Hot Band, July 4. Big Fireworks. Nat'l. Grand Revue. Nothing but the Best!

Follow the crowd to Valley Queen Sun. A real Hot Band from Fond du Lac.

SCOUTS GET READY TO DEDICATE CAMP

Youngsters Are Not Down-hearted Because Weather Caused a Postponement

Boy scouts of the Fox river valley are not down hearted because of the postponement of the dedication their camp on lake, Winnebago, and because they were not able to receive their awards at that time.

They have set as their goal a complete and perfect camp, and twice as many awards. The postponed dedication has given scout leaders a chance to further their plans and a better chance to have the camp in perfect condition before the dedication on Sunday, July 8.

The totem pole carved out of a twenty-two foot telephone pole by troop four, under the direction of Cloyd Schroeder, will be erected this week, according to Mr. Schroeder. The totem pole will be set on the top of a hill overlooking the lake.

Thirty-five more bird houses are to be attached to trees and poles around the camp site, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. The boys will also be instructed in building bridges across the creek which runs through the camp grounds.

Over 200 boys are expected to attend the camp period beginning, July 8, according to Mr. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Diedrick of Little Chute, Mr. and Mrs. John Vandefley of Hollandtown and Mr. and Mrs. George Folkamp and son, Antony, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Van Zeland, Wrightstown, and Mrs. James Coonen of this city motored to Boyd Tuesday where they attended the wedding of Miss Odella Dues.

'Louder And Striped' Suits For Woman Bathers Is Vogue

The gorgeous peacocks may be males, the dully plumaged warblers may be the home makers, but the women are making up for the unobtrusive feathers of their predecessors—it you believe in evolution—in the animal kingdom, especially when it comes to bathing suits. The men's suits are getting quieter and quieter. The women's suits are getting louder and louder.

Men's loud bathing suits, bought a year ago, are still warning the shelves of local stores. Dark blue or grey heathers are good this year, and, according to indications, will be most in demand when the weather really warms up and people can stop cocking their eyes at cold radiators. All women swimmers who don't rent their suits at the local beaches and who enjoy a good fashion parade in bathing suits as well as a Saturday night on Main street, will have a good time with the new suits. There are three piece suits with striped trunks, white waists, and blazers. The stripes are candy stick, convict, barrel hoop, or loop. There are demure suits with Peter Pan collars that overlook their sudden cessation of swimming trunks with a startled, priggish air, and there are suits flowered like a Sunday chit-fon.

Cups are plain. Evidently women are turning from bathers into swimmers.

RAIL MEN CONFER WHILE ON TRIP

W. B. Basing, agent, and W. W. Fradenburgh, yard master, for the Chicago and Northwestern railway here, will be among the railroad officials to be in conference on Tuesday, July 3, in a special coach attached to a way freight which is to carry the conference from Green Bay to Fond du Lac and back, according to W. B. Basing.

Freight traffic and other general business is to be discussed. The men will leave for Green Bay on July 2, to board the train early Tuesday, according to Mr. Basing.

The most popular headgear is the plain colored, thick rubber helmet with a strap. Men's caps—those funny little skull-buggers the young bloods once sported—like the Arabs they adorned, have "folded their tents and silently slipped away."

RAIL COMPANY ATHLETES VIE FOR HONORS SUNDAY

Kenneth Chappell, billing clerk at the Chicago and Northwestern freight house, will go to Fond du Lac Sunday morning to play in the tennis matches for the Lake Shore Division Athletic association. Golf, tennis, horse-shoe pitching, trap shooting, and baseball games will feature the contents of the day.

Chappell recently defeated a member of the Lake Shore Division at Green Bay in an elimination contest, and is now playing on the first team for the division. The matches Sunday are to be played against the Madison division at Taylor park.

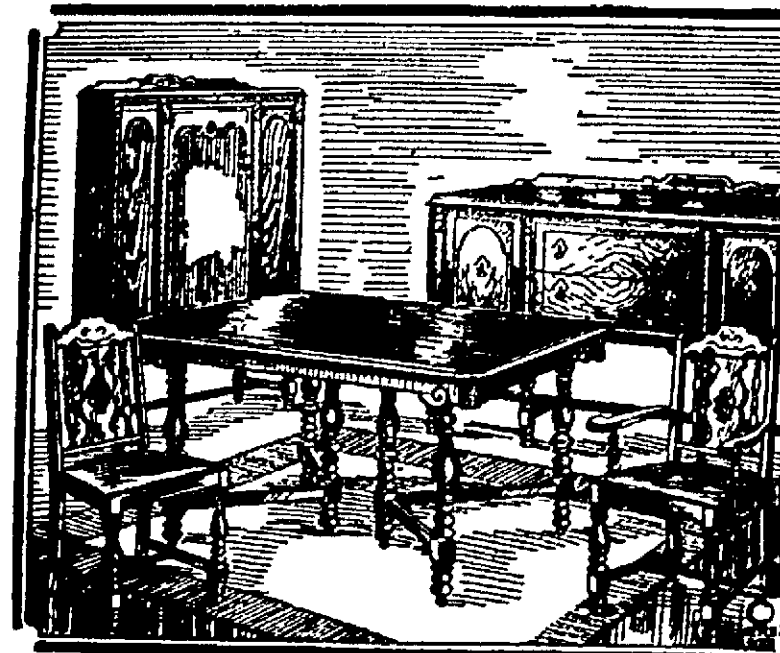

Mrs. E. G. Johnson of Niagara Falls, N. Y., is visiting Mrs. Herman Welland, 1106 W. Franklin-st, and other relatives in the city. Mrs. Johnson formerly was Miss Viola Krenkel.

OPEN SUMMER SCHOOL AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Students Again Frequent
Campus and Drone of Lecturer Is Heard

Madison—(AP)—The summer session of the University of Wisconsin, which its patrons will tell you is more picturesque than the regular fall and winter sessions, has started. Students again swarm over the campus, after the lull of several days since the June 18 commencement.

The lakeshore are assuming their summer colors as bright painted canoes drift out and bright colored bathing suits are flashed against the green of the willows, a popular beach for the students. And from many of the classrooms the drone of the lecturer or the hum of machines in the laboratory may be heard through open windows.

The summer session is always the "feature" session, its program crowded with extra-curricular activities for the school teachers, make-up students, extracurricular ones, and the others that contribute to the miscellany of summer school and time outside of the generally curtailed study schedules for enjoyment.

Excursions, field trips, and gatherings for discussion of folk lore will again be included in outside activities arranged for summer session students.

Supervised boat trips around Lake Mendota will include during the day spent on each trip, a series of talks on points of scenic, archeological, and historic interest by Charles E. Brown and Dr. Louise E. Kellogg of the State Historical Society and others. Elks will also be conducted to Eagle Heights and other points. Under direction of the geology departments there will be trips to Devils Lake and to Kibbourn. Story tellers will preside at the folk lore meetings on Lincoln Terrace at the University.

More than 4,600 students registered for the summer session the first day, presaging an increase over last year's record enrollment of 5,130.

First classes were held Tuesday in most of the divisions of the summer school.

Following the lecture of Prof. R. H. Whitbeck on "Tribal Mexico," that afternoon, the first amusement program was held. Called a "play hour," it invited the students between 7 and 8 to participate in the mass games and other forms of recreation under direction of Dr. J. C. Elsom and Miss Mossop.

Some of the other extra-curricular activities of the first week included an exhibition in the state historical museum, on the campus, of John Muir's clock, recently restored, the Louise Gottiker collection foreign maps, tourist travel camp meetings, and Sanderson paintings.

ENTER 172,975 ACRES UNDER FOREST CROP LAW

Madison—(AP)—Total area covered by applications for entry of land this year under the state forest crop law is 172,975 acres.

This is considerably more than estimates made within the last few weeks by L. B. Nagler, director of conservation, who thought applications would not exceed 100,000 acres. Mr. Nagler expressed himself as greatly pleased at the interest shown by land owners in the state's project to increase Wisconsin's timber production.

The 172,975 acres lie in fifteen of the state's northern counties. No more applications can be considered this year because Aug. 1 is the last date on which land may be entered and the law's provisions, and the conservation commission should not have sufficient time to hold hearings for additional applications.

Provisions of the law enable the land owner to devote his idle forest land to the production of timber. Such areas are removed from the time from the county tax rolls. The state reimburses the township for their tax loss by paying into the county treasury 10 cents for each acre entered in the forest crop plan.

German's New Book Says Woman Is Link Between Man And Apes

BY MILTON BRONNER
London—Resolved: that women are not human beings.

The affirmative will be taken by Dr. Adolf Heilborn of Germany, author of "Weib und Mann" or "Husband and Wife," which is the present best seller of the continent.

Dr. Heilborn probably will be helped on the affirmative side by any number of disgruntled males.

The negative will be ably handled by every one of these strange beings who the eminent anthropologist and ethnologist, Dr. Heilborn, insists are only semihuman beings, a sort of missing link between man and the ape. The salons of Europe have heard this debate heatedly raging ever since the little green book came forth and since the book is now in America, it may be well for this "semi-sex" to begin marshaling their ammunition right now.

The book has made a stir because Dr. Heilborn is a scientist rather than an author of sensational best sellers. He is 56 and has been an authority on anthropology for years. His "Evolution of Mankind" written with the late Herman Klaatsch has been called the best thing in that field since Darwin.

And it is this eminent scientist who has taken his pen in hand to declare that at best woman is but a very inferior man and that at her average she is just "a freak," part way between the human and animal.

First of all, he disclaims that his classification of woman is at all original with him. He offers the reminder that way back in early Greece, Hippocrates and Aristotle said the same thing.

CITES ANATOMIST

He says that as late as 1884 the famous German anatomist, Paul Albrecht, stood before an anthropological meeting in Breslau and presented any number of scientific facts seeking to prove the many more animal characteristics of woman than the human, considered from the anatomical aspect.

He cites, too, Max Funke, author of "Are Women Human Beings," who says that woman's small brain box indicates that she is not really human, but is merely a missing link between man and the manlike ape; that in short, she is a semi-human.

Dr. Heilborn does not stop with mere anatomical study of woman. He has concentrated on the psychic and emotional differences, too. And from the sum total of his study, he offers these conclusions:

Anatomically, woman is smaller-boned and generally smaller and softer-muscled, he says. Her teeth have a tendency to slant outwards. This is typical of the lower race still existent, of the primitive Neanderthal man and of the manlike ape.

Her cranium is smaller and this means a smaller brain. Moreover, her brain is not as finely modeled as in man.

And the eminent doctor recalls the fact that those people who rank lowest in the scale of mankind are the races with smallest craniums and brains.

BLOOD IS DIFFERENT

The blood of a woman is so inferior to that of man that it makes a constitutional defect, he continues. Woman's blood has more plasma or blood and he points out, but is much poorer in red corpuscles than man's. Consequently, neither her brain, muscles nor other organs can be as highly developed as man's and he doubts that she "ever can reach the cultural heights which man has reached."

Man relies upon intellect and woman relies on instinct just as animals do, the affirmative side of the debate continues. This makes woman less independent than man, but—he admits—may give her more serenity.

Woman's organs, of sight, hearing and smell, says Dr. Heilborn, are inferior to man's. But he does descend to admit that her senses of taste and touch are superior. But don't choke, ladies. He says that this very superiority shows a lower order of evolution than man's.

Jane Addams

Mary Garden

Marie Curie

Dr. Adolf Heilborn

Ethel Barrymore

Here are Dr. Heilborn and some of the famous women who seem to belie his theory. Jane Addams of Chicago is the noted social worker; Mary Garden, the grand impresario; Madame Curie, the radium scientist; Ethel Barrymore, the actress, and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the politician.

as nothing else could do. Animals always have better senses of taste and touch than human beings.

A study of men and women students in the universities, conclusively proves that the males are always intellectually superior, he says, while the females work only from intuition.

RAFS EMOTIONALISM
Woman's emotionalism now gets a crack. He lists: woman's changing moods, her fears, long duration of grief, short duration of anger, rapid changes of sympathy, frequent laughter, impulsiveness, tendency towards fanaticism, cleverness in manual labor, vanity, religious feeling and tendency to psychic stir.

Then Dr. Heilborn goes through the arts and sciences with what he, at least, is sure is fine tooth care and says that there have been no really great names among women as among men. He then takes his comb over to the field of inventions.

Ah, he finds one—the earthen cooking pot! The only woman invention that he deems worthy of mention! He claims that her one discovery made primitive man dependent upon her for better food. He hands her a little something for this, but only because the cooking pot led to James Watt's tea kettle which, in turn, led to the invention of the steam engine.

Then, as if to take away any faint aroma of praise regarding that cooking pot, Dr. Heilborn quotes the anatomist, Paul Albrecht, who described woman's anatomical aspects as more savage and ape-like than some of our present time apes.

He quotes him, too, on the subject of how women act when they get mad and fight. They use tooth and nails, he says, reminding us that men never bite or claw an adversary.

Sie him, girls! Are women human? You tell him!

NEXT: A woman scientist answers.

PENNY POSTAGE FOR POST CARDS COMING BACK; CHANGE JULY 1

Numerous Other Changes in Postal Rates Go into Effect at That Time

The change in domestic postage rates to go into effect July 1, 1928, which will most effect and favor the general public is the deduction of one cent on private mailing or post cards. It was explained to postoffice and substation employees Tuesday evening at the Hotel Northern by H. J. Frank, assistant postmaster. The rate which went into effect April 15, 1925, called for two cents on this type of first class matter. Post cards can be sent for one cent after July 1.

Changes in second class matter include magazines, newspapers and other periodicals containing notice of entry as second class, when sent by others than publishers or news agents which can now be sent for one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof. The old rate was two cents for two ounces.

Third class matter up to an eight ounce, including books and catalogues of 24 pages or more, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions and plants, will need one cent for each two ounces except library books sent by public libraries or organizations not organized for profits, as a loan to readers, or those returned by readers to the public libraries.

Bulk mailers of third class matter can obtain a slightly reduced rate of postage, under certain conditions, by arranging to prepay the charges at the rate of twelve cents per pound on entire mailings of ordinary third class matter, or eight cents per pound on the books, seeds and others exception class. The rate paid is never to average lower than one cent per piece and either the "paid in money permit" method or precancelled stamps must be used.

Fourth class matter over eight ounces such as merchandise, books, printed matter and all other mailable matter not in first or second class, will not be assessed the two cents service charge on the first pound, after July 1. From the fourth to the eighth, the rate is decreased one cent in each case, with the same rates on additional pounds. Special handling rates have been decreased, will be rated similar to special delivery service and will include a new special delivery and special handling feature. The rate will include a 10 cent fee on parcels weighing not more than two pounds, 15 cents for those weighing over two pounds, but not more than 10 pounds, and 20 cents for all weighing over 10 pounds. This does not include special delivery service.

Special delivery and special handling combined for second, third, and fourth class matter with expeditions dispatch and transportation, the same as first class letter mail, including immediate delivery after arrival at the office of address will be 15 cents up to two pounds, 25 cents over two pounds and up to 10, and 35 cents for matter over 10 pounds. The old special delivery rates for first class mail remains the same.

The amount of the registry fee for first class, sealed fourth class, unsealed second and third class, indelible for not over $50 will pass for 15 cents, and those not over $100 for 20 cents. All first class mail, indelible for not over $200 but exceeding $100 will be rated at 30 cents; $200, but exceeding $200, 40 cents; $400, but exceeding $400, 50 cents; $500, but exceeding $500, 60 cents; $600, but exceeding $600, 70 cents; $700, but exceeding $700, 80 cents; $800, but exceeding $800, 90 cents, and $1,000 but exceeding $800, one dollar.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

NATHANIEL DANN, a struggling artist, gives a party at his Greenwich Village studio in honor of his fiancée, VIRGINIA, beautiful daughter and heiress of RICHARD BREWSTER, Wall-st. financier.

NIEL's model, CHIRI, is jealous of VIRGINIA and tells him that he will spoil his career if he marries the wealthy girl who cannot appreciate his art. He tests VIRGINIA by showing her his studies in nude and then introduces her to the model, but her reaction is so wholesomely sweet that he is more in love than ever.

While the party is in progress, NIEL receives a phone message that VIRGINIA's father is found dead of heart failure. He hurries her home, where she is prostrated with grief. At sight of the peculiarly tortured expression on the dead man's face, NIEL involuntarily asks the doctor, "Do you think it was a... natural death?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER II
Dr. Meyerling regarded Nathaniel with grave thoughtfulness before replying to his question.

Then he said quietly, "Why do you ask me that?"
Nathaniel hesitated just a second. "That look on his face," he began uncertainly, "sort of fearful and..."

"You are engaged to Miss Brewster, I believe?" Dr. Meyerling broke in.

"Yes? Well, then I'll tell you that Mr. Brewster worried himself to death. I warned him often that it would come to this."

"What in the world did he have to worry about?" Nathaniel asked unbelievably.

"Money, young man; the thing that is at the bottom of most men's worries."

"I can't imagine Mr. Brewster in financial difficulties," Nathaniel remarked frankly, "but if it was as you say, could that have made him look as though he saw an assassin before him?"

"He did see an assassin. He saw Death, and this time he must have known that Death would be victorious."

"Still, I can't see why facing death could have marked him like that. Surely it must have been something more. I don't believe Mr. Brewster could have feared so greatly to die."

"He did not fear for himself, no, but he wanted to live so that the day when his daughter must learn that for years his fortune had been rapidly dwindling away would be postponed."

Nathaniel uttered a sound of dismay, but he was thinking only of Virginia and Dr. Meyerling comprehended this.

"This only relieving thought was that his daughter was going to marry a man he believed in," he told Nathaniel warmly and put a friendly hand on his shoulder.

"I think it would be advisable to have Mrs. Pike communicate with some of Miss Brewster's friends and get someone here as soon as possible," he went on, not waiting for Nathaniel to speak. "I'll send in a nurse, but Miss Brewster will sleep for several hours. You'd better go home and get some rest. She will need you tomorrow."

Nathaniel remained until a friend of Virginia's appeared. He thought the girl looked incapable of comforting her Mrs. Pike assured him that she was Virginia's closest friend.

Strange he hadn't met her before, Mrs. Dean? Then he remembered. She had been in Europe for two years, but Virginia often had talked about her. He wondered why Virginia cared for her. The attraction of opposites, perhaps, he told himself.

As he walked home, the many blocks uncounted, his heart ached with pity for Virginia. In his studio he took a stiff drink from a bottle that he found on a side table. The guests were gone, the butler, too.

When he put down the glass Nathaniel seemed to view his surroundings with a new meaning. The table was somewhat disordered and the one temptingly-garnished pattee and jellies were messy looking now. The orchids drooped and in the hollow stems of champagne glasses a pale liquid had lost its effervescent power. It seemed to symbolize the joy that had blossomed here and died.

"My God," he cried sharply and sank down with his head on the table. He felt for the moment that he and his guests had danced on a grave.

"Have a cigarette?" Nathaniel lifted his head.

"Why didn't you go with the others?" he demanded of the girl who stood here, proffering a package of cigarettes.

"Guess you'd get into a funk. What was it, Niel? Is her father dead?"

Nathaniel nodded. "Heart trouble." "That's too bad for you. Now you'll have a rich wife instead of merely an heiress."

"No! Though it's going to be rough on Virginia, I won't have to play that role, Chiri. Mr. Brewster did not leave a fortune."

Chiri gasped. "Well, you found that out soon enough. She must be sure of your love to tell you."

"She—if you mean Virginia—didn't tell me. In fact, she doesn't know it yet; at least I believe she doesn't."

"Ah," Chiri breathed the word as though with its utterance she experienced an exhilarating emotion.

Quickly, through her scheming little head, had passed a new idea, one that she accepted with a satisfaction that took no thought of what it would mean to Nathaniel if the idea became a reality.

Virginia Brewster, heiress to Richard Brewster's millions, could afford the luxury of a poor husband—but Virginia Brewster, deprived of those millions...? she might throw Niel over!

Chiri rose, having seated herself, and got the bottle from which she had seen Nathaniel pour his drink.

"Here, have another," she urged, coming back to him. It wouldn't harm her newly-born hopes if she could send Nathaniel to Virginia with the effects of drinking showing on his features.

"At a time like this," she thought, "she'd hate it. Even I would if it were my father."

But Nathaniel had needed only one bracer. It was enough. He told Chiri so. She shrugged at the quick failure of her plan. After all, she shouldn't have expected it to work—Niel was too decent for that.

"Well, there's nothing more to offer you—except that I know you don't want my loving comfort—so I'll get on to my downy couch. It hasn't been impressed with my dainty figure for two nights. I don't suppose you'll be working for some time. Mind if I go to Hark for his series? He won't finish with me very soon but when you're back at work again you'll have to do the murals and let your illustrations go—anyhow, so you won't need me."

"Good night," Nathaniel muttered, and Chiri understood she could go to Foll Harkness, or anywhere else she liked.

"I'll come in and make you some coffee," she promised. "What time are you getting up?"

"I'm not going to bed, and don't bother, please."

"You mean you're going to sit up all night and soak yourself in grief over what's happened to Miss Brewster?"

Nathaniel glanced at his watch. "It's almost morning now."

"Then I'll make the coffee before I go."

"Never mind..." Nathaniel feared she would want to stay to drink with him. But she surprised him by leaving as soon as she had the percolator going and sugar at his elbow.

Chiri often did the unexpected. Nathaniel thought of that with gratitude as he drank the steaming black liquid. Then he forgot her entirely in thinking of Virginia.

As early as he dared he was at her apartment that morning and for the next few days he remained at her side as much as he was permitted to. She had not been told about her father's financial trouble. He learned this from Dr. Meyerling, who had talked with Mr. Brewster's lawyer. The physician had advised against telling her until after her father's funeral.

Nathaniel dreaded the hour of disclosure for her. Its coming so close on the shock of her great bereavement made him wonder if she could stand up under it. She was so pitifully near collapse as it was.

But he was to see a new side of Virginia's character when Mr. Gardiner, the lawyer, intoned the bad news to her. She had been rather astonished at her abandonment to grief such as one expects only from less tortured persons. He had expected more self-control from her, but then, he reminded himself, her love for her father was the extraordinary kind. They had been truly devoted to each other.

Nathaniel sensed the fact that Virginia's loss had terrified her.

It was different now, however, when she claimed that she had lost a fortune as well. It seemed rather to be a wilder than to hurt her.

"But I can't understand," she murmured: "how can you say there is nothing left? We still have the house at Glen Cove and... daddy..."

"He ruined our expenses..." never curtailed our expenses... appearances," Mr. Gardiner explained bluntly. "All the property he inherited was heavily mortgaged long ago. Somehow he managed to keep the estate you speak of clear... until about three months ago. What he did with the money he obtained on it at that time I have not been able to discover. There are no receipts bills of any recent date. I fear, Miss Brewster, that there is an appalling number of accounts yet to be paid, and foreclosures on your property are sure to be immediate."

The man all but dropped the words, in doing his duty. He found it difficult, of course, but Virginia's attitude deceived him. She seemed so indifferent.

except to Nathaniel, who sat close enough to watch her reactions coming and going in her grief-filled eyes.

Mr. Gardiner suspected it was possible she possessed some means unknown to him... ah, yes, the money her father had raised on the estate at Glen Cove... no, no... that would not be like them. Richard Brewster hadn't known how to brake the toboggan of habit on which he was riding to financial doom, but his lawyer knew that he would not have planned to cheat anyone to whom he owed money.

Nathaniel felt that his voice could have been softer, his manner more gentle, and he was infinitely glad when it was all over and he was alone with Virginia. He had something he considered very important to say to her before he left her this time. But he did not get to say it. They were interrupted by an unexpected caller whom Virginia would not refuse to see.

CANNING PLANT PREPARES FOR ANNUAL HARVEST OF PEAS

PROSPECTS NOW ARE FOR GOOD QUALITY; DEMAND IS GROWING

Officers of Hortonville Company Says Market Demands Quality Product

BY W. F. WINSEY
Hortonville—The Fox Valley Canning company is making the usual repairs and otherwise putting the plant in shape for beginning canning operations about July 1.

The bean pack of last season has been disposed of by the company and practically all of the pea pack. Although over production of canned peas has been charged from year to year for the past several years, it is the opinion of an official of the local company that there is no limit to the demand for fancy grades of peas and that the market would readily absorb any more canned peas than are in sight. Often the surplus is made up of a lower grade of peas that have been permitted to get too large, starchy and hard and are not properly processed before being offered to the consumer. But even if peas grow large, if they are put up in accordance with the better methods, they are exceedingly palatable and valuable as food. The time has come when consumers of peas pass up the lower grades and select only the good grades for use on the home table.

The pea crop about Hortonville shows a good stand and color and looks very thrifty. The yield will probably be equal to that of last year at the lowest estimate and very much larger at an optimistic estimate.

Last season, the company packed 50,000 cases of peas of the Alaska and Fancy brands. The Alaska brand is an early variety of round smooth peas. Fancy brand means the best and tenderest regardless of the size. This latter brand is the highest priced. The largest pea packed made by the company was 75,000 cases.

The bean output of the plant last year was 27,000 cases as against 50,000 cases in 1925.

The company is now erecting a large building to be used as an office and garage. The office is 26 feet by 32 feet and the garage 26 by 48 feet.

RECENT RAINS HAVE CHANGED OUTLOOK OF OUTAGAMIE-CO CROPS

Crops Renew Growth With Much Vigor and Pastures Are Improving

BY W. F. WINSEY
Before the recent rains the prospect of the usual crops for northeastern Wisconsin was not very promising. The clovers and alfalfa had been winterkilled generally in pastures and meadows. Such a situation as regards the crops was a serious one. As it is, however, the crops are now showing good stands and fairly good color, were practically at a standstill. Growers were planting their late potatoes and late cabbage.

After the rains, the growth of all crops was renewed with great vigor. Pastures would now be supplying larger quantities of feed if the cattle could have been removed to give the pastures a chance to revive. As it is, although green, they are still short and are not furnishing enough feed. Meadows responded to the rains but June grass had dried up and Timothy was heading out on short stalks before the rains. The meadows will not produce over one-third of the average crop of hay and a shortage of hay for farmers. Corn, potatoes and cabbage are short but are now doing well. Peas promise a big crop.

The Wisconsin crop outlook has been greatly improved by the favorable rains of the last few days, according to a report of the Wisconsin Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, of the Department of Agriculture. A generally late season combined with an unusually dry month of May made the crop prospects rather poor on June 1.

Unlike last year, when Wisconsin had the greatest hay crop in the history of the state, the outlook for 1928 is for a rather short crop. The clovers and alfalfa suffered heavily from winterkilling, especially in the southern half of the state, and all hay was slow in getting started due to the late spring. During the month of May, rainfall in much of Wisconsin was only about two-thirds of normal.

"According to June estimates, the condition of all tame hay in Wisconsin was 70 per cent of normal as compared with 93 per cent a year ago and a year average of 86 per cent. The condition of pastures was only slightly better than that of tame hay. With the coming of the rains during the last few days, however, marked improvement in hay and pastures is looked for but in any event the hay crop will be much smaller than last year.

The spring sown grains, oats, barley and spring wheat look good for the most part. Some underseed was noted due to dry weather at seeding time which caused uneven sprouting, but this has largely disappeared. Corn was planted under good soil conditions and is reported as showing good stands generally. Serious cut worm damage, however, is being experienced in some localities.

"Apple trees are reported as having an excellent bloom throughout Wisconsin. Unless later conditions cause a large drop, the early outlook is for an apple crop much better than last year."

WEALTH IN WHEAT
Canada's 22,450,000 acres in wheat during 1927 averaged a yield of 25.1 bushels an acre, counting the entire yield at 440,624,700 bushels.

MAKES FARM OUT OF SWAMP

You may rest assured that the farm home and buildings of F. R. Appleton Oneida, looked nothing like this when he visited the timber covered tract for the first time in 1915. Things have changed, however, and now he has one of the best farms and farm homes in that section.

Below is Mr. and Mrs. Appleton and their two children, Mary and Robert.

Appleton Homestead Made From Timber Covered Swamp

BY W. F. WINSEY

Oneida—To reclaim a slashing covered with brush, windfalls, stumps and standing timber, much of it a mud hole with no roads, in the course of a few years, and to make it one of the neatest and most productive homesteads in Outagamie county, is a part of the incomparable record of F. R. Appleton, route 4, Seymour.

"The first time I came out here, in 1915, the only road was a winding Indian trail through brush. The only settlers I found in this vicinity were Ray Smith and Henry Vandenberg. The former had a shack on his land and the latter an 8 by 10 shanty. For weeks at a time, when we were burning brush, the air was clouded heavily with smoke and the fires often got beyond control. On one of these occasions, a forest fire burned the newly constructed highway causing a considerable loss of labor and money.

As an illustration of some other obstacles in his way when he set out to make a farm out of raw material, it may be stated that a year after his marriage, the kind before the new land on Sunday through the mud and brush besetting the trail out to see the new possessions he had acquired. After due consideration of the conditions confronting them and the hopeless task of making a home in a wilderness of the kind before her, she inquired, "Have you bought this land?" and getting an affirmative reply, she countered with the exclamation, "I shall never leave Freedom and try to make a home in a mud hole like this."

But she did not now she is very much pleased with what she and her husband have accomplished. Shortly after this visit to the farm, a cattle buyer and Mr. Appleton trudged out to the farm to inspect some young livestock that had been turned loose in the woods. Falling in round them up or even to catch eight of the cattle, the dealer inquired from his perch on a stump, "What are you intending to do with this slashing? If you are intending to make a farm of it, I would advise you to get out before you begin as you can never succeed."

Notwithstanding the advice and predictions of failure, Mr. Appleton started improving his new possession by blasting out stumps and removing brush and windfalls from the site he had selected for a shack, large enough to accommodate 10 men whom he proposed to employ in the building of a barn. He had to repeat these operations to clear a site for a barn. As Mr. Appleton was a mason by trade, he built the basement of his barn himself from rock quarried three miles distant from the farm. When raising the bents of the barn, they used large trees close at hand for anchors.

Of the 90 acres he purchased from G. O. Wilcox and 70 acres he later purchased from Indians, Mr. Appleton now has 100 acres under the plow. He regularly employed two Indians to help him in summer with the work and one Indian in the winter to assist in clearing the land. He cleared and broke 20 acres the first year and did the same each year thereafter. In the first 20 acres cleared, he planted 17 acres of corn and 3 acres of potatoes. An early frost destroyed both crops. As I had 20 cattle to feed and my last stock of corn disappeared on Christmas day, I went out and bought feed for the herd wherever I could find it for sale. The following year I sowed the 20 acres to oats and clover and have never had any trouble with crops and feed since.

In 1918, Mr. Appleton bought his first purebred Holstein bull and cow off a DePere breeder and started out in dairying on an improved foundation. He now has 15 purebred cows, five pure bred heifers, two calves and a heifer six. Although he had 10 hogs last season, he has cut down that number considerably on account of the drop in price.

Mr. Appleton built his residence in 1916. It is large, convenient and modern in every way. It is furnished with electric light and supplied with running water. His stables are equipped with drinking cups, steel stallions and pens and a milking machine.

Mr. Appleton is the son of Henry Appleton, town of Osborn. He was educated in the public schools, and the parochial schools of Freedom. On October 30, 1911, he married Anna Nielsen, house and the couple has three children, Orville, Mary and Robert. He has served on the school board and 8 years as town supervisor. He is now serving his third year as chairman of the Outagamie county Highway committee.

STATE WILLING TO AID IN ERADICATION OF JOHNES DISEASE
State Bulletin Warns That Immediate Steps Must Be Taken to Save Herds

BY W. F. WINSEY
Many cattle owners of the state are availing themselves of state aid in eradicating Johnes disease from their herds, the department of agriculture reports.

The department announces it is in a position to arrange for testing of all herds suspected of being infected with the disease.

The indemnity for cattle reacting to the Johnes test is the same as that for cattle reacting to the tuberculin test, according to an Outagamie county veterinarian. When a herd or an animal is suspected of being infected with the Johnes disease, a local veterinarian may notify the state department. In case reactors are discovered, they are slaughtered in the presence of inspectors and the owners later receive an indemnity on the same basis as cattle slaughtered on reacting in the tuberculin test.

"Johnes disease is not wide spread at present, but it may become so," says Bulletin 343, College of Agriculture.

GRANGE PREPARING FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

Greenville—Preparations for making the annual picnic of the South Greenville Grange on Saturday, June 30, on Maple View grounds the big affair of the season, are rapidly nearing completion.

The exercises of the day will include talks by well known speakers, games and stunts for children, a range of baseball, a literary, musical and drill program put on by children, a basket dinner and dancing in the evening.

Among the speakers will be Governor Zimmerman, Herman Iude, State Grange Master, and George R. Schaefer, master of the local grange.

The game of baseball will be played by the South Greenville Grange team and the Zion team. The Maple View pavilion will be used for dancing and perhaps for the presentation of the literary program.

These annual picnics of the grange are very popular and sociable affairs and people who attend and of them are sure to form the habit of attending others.

NO APPLESAUCE
The apple crop of Illinois is estimated to be the next to a disaster this year as it was in 1927. The figures given for this year's production is 1,500,000 barrels.

"Now is the time to fight it. Intermittent diarrhea and emaciation are the chief signs. An organism that grows in the intestinal wall causes the disease. The effect on the animal is to produce progressive emaciation. A thickened and much wrinkled intestinal wall is the most marked lesion of the disease. The organism causing the disease is brought into a herd in the body of a dead animal. If the disease is far advanced in any of the affected animals, the organism will be detected in the animal by the

Making the Roof

The picture here shows the general plan of the roof. Four posts are cut to the same lengths as the back and sides of the house. These must be sawed or beveled at the ends so the corners will fit. Two uprights about two feet high are nailed securely in the center to hold up the roof and across these a three-cornered beam is nailed.

A three-cornered beam can be made by simply sawing a post lengthwise through the middle as pictured above.

After the outer sides of the framework are planed so the roof boards can be nailed on, flat boards are nailed to the frame.

Now we nail flat boards up the back as shown in the figure to the left. This plan is followed about the lower half of the house and above the door in front. The figure to the right shows how the trellis work can be put in. This consists simply of thin strips nailed in the manner indicated. (Tomorrow: Rustic Furniture.)

ELABORATE SERVICE WHEN CORNERSTONE IS PUT IN SCHOOL

Msgr. Lochman Officiates at Services at St. Mary Church Sunday Afternoon

Kaukauna—The Rev. Msgr. P. J. Lochman, vicar general of the Green Bay Catholic diocese and pastor of Holy Cross church here will be in charge of ceremonies here Sunday afternoon at the laying of the cornerstone of the new St. Mary school.

The ceremonies will include a sermon by the Rev. Father Lochman and an address on the Value of Education by Mayor W. C. Sullivan.

After the blessing of the cornerstone, which will repose in a communion rail in which all the church societies will take part, will carry the stone to the school building where it will be laid.

Laying of the cornerstone will be a red letter day for the St. Mary parishioners who have been expected to share in the funds to build the new school which is to cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, according to the Rev. Conrad Ripp, pastor of St. Mary parish.

A large number of clergy from parishes in the diocese are expected at the ceremony, according to Father Lochman, who is estimated that several thousand laymen also will attend the services.

The program will start at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon with the blessing of the cornerstone by the church. The Rev. Father Lochman will be in charge of this service.

Leading the procession will be the American flag carried by one of the school boys. The school children, led by the assistant pastor, the Rev. Joseph Schaefer, will be next in line. They will be followed by the organizations in the order named: the Ladies Altar society, members of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, Catholic Order of Foresters, Catholic Knights of Wisconsin, St. Boniface society, Third Order of St. Francis, St. Theresa Young Ladies' society.

Then will follow the four members of the building committee, John Schmidt, William Galmbacher, Earnest Landreman, and John Van De Lov, who will carry the cornerstone. Following the cornerstone will be the altar boys and the clergy.

Various documents will be placed in the cornerstone by Monsignor Lochman and then W. H. Farley, the contractor who has charge of the construction work, will put the stone in place and secure it.

After the ceremonies the Ladies of the congregation will serve supper in the basement of the church and the evening there will be a card party.

HOVDE APPOINTED SWIMMING TEACHER

Succeeds St. Mitchell Who Resigns to Teach at Boys' Camp

Kaukauna—Announcement was made Wednesday of the appointment of Jacob Hovde as swimming instructor in charge of the swimming pool at Kaukauna. This position is held at present by Gilbert St. Mitchell, who has tendered his resignation to take effect Saturday.

Mr. St. Mitchell will go to Red Arrow boys camp on Trout lake where he will be swimming instructor. Mr. Hovde is a graduate of the local high school and was a prominent athlete during his school years.

A new schedule for the swimming pool went into effect Tuesday and instead of being open two days each week the pool now will be open four nights from 7 to 9 o'clock. Women will be allowed to swim on Monday and Wednesday evenings, while the pool will be open to men on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The pool will be open every weekday with Mondays, Wednesday and Friday reserved for the girls, and Tuesdays, Thursday and Saturdays for the men.

Approximately 150 swimmers are using the pool every day, according to Mr. St. Mitchell, and the number of water lovers is increasing almost every day. Hot days find the pool in use almost continuously.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

In taking a horse's age is reckoned from the January of the year in which it was born; thus a horse born in December, and actually but a month old the following January, would not actually be a year old.

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and kindly, without gripping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

A sham battle will feature the band and military picnic which is to be held next Sunday at the veterans' home at Waupaca according to E. F. Mumm, director of 20th Field Artillery band. Mr. Mumm is in charge of the program.

Military companies from six cities will take part in the sham battle which will be a part of the program. The following cities will be represented: Appleton, Waupaca, Neenah, Manitowish, Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids. Addresses are to be given by Col. F. J. Schneller of Neenah, commander of the Wisconsin Department of the American Legion, and Col. John Turner, head of the veterans' home, and Major A. C. Rule of Appleton.

Major Fred Hoffman and Captains Clyde Schroeder and J. K. Campbell of the Appleton guards, will be in charge of the sham battle which will take place at 3:45 in the afternoon.

The bands and military companies will arrive at 11 o'clock Sunday morning and a basket lunch will be served at noon.

After dinner the 120th Field Artillery band from Appleton will play an hour's concert from 1:30 to 2:30 under the direction of Mr. Mumm. After the concert Col. Turner will give the address of welcome.

A short response will be given by Mayor Albert C. Rule of Appleton and then Col. Schneller will give his address.

A guard mount parade will be put on by the Company D of the 20th Field Artillery at 3:45 pm, then will follow the dress parade in which all six companies will take part. The sham battle will take place at 4:30.

GIRLS PLAY BASEBALL ON CITY PLAYGROUNDS

Two baseball games constituted Tuesday's program for girls at the Fourth ward playground. The two opposing teams came from the Third and Sixth wards.

The games were refereed by Lydia Becker, playground director for girls. In the afternoon, the midge team "Lucky Strikers" of the Fourth ward was defeated by the "White Caps" of the Third ward by a score of 25 to 6. The "White Caps" defeated the "Cooks" of the Fourth ward by a score of 22 to 4 in the evening game.

The attendance of children at the playground was favorable Tuesday following the recent rains which temporarily stopped activities, according to Miss Becker.

New Jersey Lady Delegate Mislays Her Money Cache

(By the Associated Press.)

"Mrs. Cornelius from New Jersey has lost $48 from under her hat," astonished Democrats heard Senator Robinson read in tearful tones from a pencilled slip of paper just after former-Governor Nellie Taylor Ross had taken her seat.

"While holding the banner shortly after Mr. Franklin Roosevelt's address," he continued to read, "the hat was knocked off, with $48, one $20 bill and four $5 bills and eight ones."

"In view of the nature of the announcement," he continued rapping for order, "I think I might add that Mr. Franklin Roosevelt had nothing to do with it."

As the Smith parade wended its way about the convention hall the North Carolina delegation, out of the demonstration by a vote of 24 to 7, seemed to have been in the front row position but not for long. The delegation was suddenly shocked to see a North Carolina standard pass. They looked at their state marker right side up and handled with care at the end of a row and wondered, some more. Then they remembered that there was a standard attached to the alternate section in the rear. W. F. Brooks, of Smithville, set out in pursuit and soon returned bringing the truant standard with him. It developed that Bradford Duncan of Tucson, Ariz., had spied the unguarded "tar heel" emblem as he passed with his delegation and introduced it into the party.

Houston police are a good natured lot. Called on to restore order during several mixups on the floor during the demonstration periods, they fell to with a will and a smile. They used plenty of force in pulling belligerent delegates apart, but if they were angry they failed to show it.

Two 6-saltors took prominent part in the two big parades of the evening session. Senator Harris of Georgia, did yeoman work with a noise making device resembling a rattle in the demonstration for his colleague, Senator George. Senator Tydings carried the Maryland standard throughout the Smith march and although perspiration was pouring from his face before it was over, he did not call for a pinch hitter.

The Iowa delegation sings. At the slightest lull in the proceedings a chorus of "Iowa" is heard. The song is a "From I-o-way, that's where the tall corn grows."

The old adage describing the hardness of the path of the peacekeeper, has been driven home to Houston politicians by the fits of Democratic delegates.

One policeman who aided in quieting the disturbance about the North Carolina and Alabama standard yesterday, rubbed his head gingerly and hoped for a peaceful session.

"Somebody cracked me in the head with his fist in the fight today," he explained.

Assistant Chief of Police Kuykendall said after the melee on the floor Wednesday night, he had received a variety of assorted blows about the head in helping his men quell the disturbances.

"But worst of all," he added, "was a kick in the shin."

GOUGH DELEGATES MAINTAIN DIGNITY AS CROWDS CHEER

New Yorks Hold Poise Throughout Turbulent Demonstration at Al's Name

Houston, Tex. — (AP) — Governor Smith's New York delegation kept its dignity on straight all the way through the turbulent demonstration following the placing of its candidate's name before the Democratic convention. The policy of poise at any cost stood up under a severe strain.

With a fight in front of them, a scuffle behind them, and surging crowds yelling praises of "Al Smith," the delegation maintained its composure. Another New York delegation meaning "The place of the birds" was given honorable mention. It was suggested by Troop four, Appleton.

"Chickagami" is the Chippewa Indian name for The Camp On The Lake. The name was considered to be the most appropriate by the committee. Another Indian name meaning "The place of the birds" was given honorable mention. It was suggested by Troop four, Appleton.

But the Al Smith club members have been notified that unless they pay their $50 assessments for the new clubhouse before tonight they will be compelled to pay the extra $6 which represents 10 per cent of the assessment.

Exterior structural work on the new Walter Sigl building, being built at 320 W. College-ave, is nearing completion, and it is expected that the exterior work will be started this week. The front is being constructed of face brick, and the top of the building is to be decorated with white art stone. The building is to be used as a dry cleaning and pressing shop, according to Mr. Sigl.

Temperatures for Thursday were 55 degrees above zero in the morning and 60 degrees above at noon.

FAIR WEATHER FOLLOWS RAIN, PREDICTION SAYS

Generally fair weather will probably follow the 13 hours precipitation of Thursday, according to the weatherman's predictions for Thursday night and Friday.

The mercury took a decided drop when 5.5 inches of rain fell up to 10:30 p.m. Thursday noon.

Shower with decreasing temperatures, are reported throughout the Midwest and in the upper and lower lake regions. Generally fair weather, with the winds settling in the southwest, is prevailing over the western states, and the possibilities of an ideal weekend look hopeful.

Temperatures for Thursday were 55 degrees above zero in the morning and 60 degrees above at noon.

PUT FAVORITE SONS BEFORE CONVENTION

speeches was not half finished when the convention quit shortly before midnight. A morning session Thursday will give over to the formalities of this necessary convention formality, with the hope of going on to balloting for a nominee either Thursday night or Friday.

INTEREST FALLS

Neither delegates nor spectators took a great deal of interest in the oratorical flourish of presenting the remaining candidates, for the scene of the play had been enacted at the night session. Smith of New York, with enough votes already pledged to him to nominate him out of the running, presented formally in a nominating speech that kept his supporters cheering and started a 20 minute carnival of noise making and parading. It was during that bit of bedlam that fist flew on two occasions to settle whether the state standard of Mississippi should go into the parade or stay out, eventually it stayed out, and apparently no one was much the worse for the rough and tumble it took to accomplish the decision.

Besides Smith, whose nomination was presented by Franklin D. Roosevelt and seconded by a whole relay of speakers including three women, the convention formally entered on its book of eligible Evans Woolen of Indiana, Representative Ayes of Kansas, and Senator George of Georgia. Today's list included Senator Reed of Missouri, Representative Hull of Tennessee, Former Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, Former Senator Pomeroy of Ohio, Jesse Jones of Texas, Senator Harrison of Mississippi, and Huston Thompson of Colorado. Few in the whole group opposing Smith have voted pledged them outside their own states, and several are expected to withdraw almost as soon as they are put into the running, and throw their support to the leader.

BIRTHS

A son was born Monday at St. Elizabeth hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gurnee, 210 N. Richmond-st.

A son was born Tuesday at St. Elizabeth hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gillespie, 1115 W. Winnebago-st.

A daughter was born Tuesday at St. Elizabeth hospital to Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Collip, 325 Broad-st. Menasha.

BEG PARDON

Only chairmen of the convention committees of the Christian Endeavor Union conference here last week will attend the meeting and dinner to be held at the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening. An item in Wednesday's Post-Crescent said all the committee members would attend the meeting.

PLUMBING CONTRACTORS DECIDE TO ORGANIZE

Heating and plumbing contractors of the Fox river valley held a dinner and meeting in the Blue room of the Conway hotel Wednesday evening at which they decided to organize for the benefit of their business. About fourteen persons attended. Another meeting will be held in three weeks.

INSPECT POOR FARM

Members of the poor committee of the city council will meet at 7 o'clock Thursday evening. Routine business will be transacted and the men will make their regular monthly inspection of the poor farm.

FINISH ROAD JOB

The Wilson Construction company has completed the new four mile section of concrete road on the Wausau-Eau Claire road. The strip is 20 feet wide and construction was started in May.

"CHICKAGMI" IS PICKED AS NAME FOR SCOUT CAMP

"Chickagmi," the name suggested by George Breitung of the Crew patrol, troop nine, Menasha, was selected as the name of the valley council boy scout camp on Lake Winnebago at a meeting of the camp committee at Hotel Menasha Wednesday afternoon.

Breitung will receive as a prize a full week in camp with expenses paid.

"Chickagmi" is the Chippewa Indian name for The Camp On The Lake. The name was considered to be the most appropriate by the committee. Another Indian name meaning "The place of the birds" was given honorable mention. It was suggested by Troop four, Appleton.

UNCLE SAM SLAPS ON ANOTHER ASSESSMENT

Membership in clubs will be more expensive after Friday because the government will collect a 10 per cent tax roll on all dues and assessments paid after that time.

But the Al Smith club members have been notified that unless they pay their $50 assessments for the new clubhouse before tonight they will be compelled to pay the extra $6 which represents 10 per cent of the assessment.

FINISH STRUCTURAL WORK ON NEW SIGL BUILDING

Exterior structural work on the new Walter Sigl building, being built at 320 W. College-ave, is nearing completion, and it is expected that the exterior work will be started this week. The front is being constructed of face brick, and the top of the building is to be decorated with white art stone. The building is to be used as a dry cleaning and pressing shop, according to Mr. Sigl.
